Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind meets Adam Silvera's More Happy Than Not in this twisty speculative thriller People come from everywhere to forget At the Memory House in Tumble Tree Texas Lucy's father can literally erase folks' heartache and tragic memories Lucy can't wait to learn the family trade and help alleviate others' pain and now at sixteen she finally can But everything is not as it seems When Lucy practices memory taking on her dad his memory won't come loose and in the bit that Lucy sees there's a flash of Mama tigned red with guilt on the day she died Then Lucy wakes up the next morning with a bruised knee a pocketful of desert sand and no memory of what happened She has no choice but to listen to Marco Warman a local boy she's always wondered about who seems to know more than he should As Lucy and Marco realize there are gaps in their own memories they team up to fill in the missing pieces to figure out what's really going on in their town and to uncover their own stolen history along the way But as the mysteries pile up one thing becomes certain there are some secrets people will do anything to keep Do You Remember Me? Judith Levine, 2010-05-11

In her award-winning book Harmful to Minors Judith Levine radically upended our fixed ideas about childhood Now she tackles the other end of life in this poignant memoir of a daughter coming to terms with a difficult father who is sinking into dementia presenting an insightful exploration of the ways we think about disability aging and the self as it resides in the body and the world In prose that is unsentimental yet moving serious yet darkly funny complex in emotion and ideas yet spare in diction Levine reassembles her father's personal and professional history even as he is losing track of it She unpeels the layers of his complicated personality and uncovers information that surprises even her mother to whom her father has been married for more than sixty years As her father deteriorates the family consensus about who he was and is and how best to care for him constantly threatens to collapse Levine recounts the painful discussions mad outbursts and gingerly negotiations and dissects the shifting alliances among family friends and a changing guard of hired caretakers Spending more and more time with her father she confronts a relationship that has long felt bereft of love By caring for his needs she learns to care about and slowly to love him While Levine chronicles these developments she looks outside her family for the sources of their perceptions and expectations deftly weaving politics science history and philosophy into their personal story A memoir opens up to become a critique of our culture's attitudes toward the elderly A claustrophobic account of Alzheimer's is transformed into a complex lesson about love duty and community What creates a self and keeps it whole Levine insists that only the collaboration of others can safeguard her father's self against the riddling of his brain Embracing interdependence and vulnerability not autonomy and productivity as the seminal elements of our humanity Levine challenges herself and her readers to find new meaning even hope in one man's mortality and our own
