Vu Trong Phung, 2010-11-30 What does it mean when a city of 180 000 people has more than 5 000 women working as prostitutes This question frames Vu Trong Phung's 1937 classic reportage Luc Xi In the late 1930s Hanoi had a burgeoning commercial sex industry that involved thousands of people and hundreds of businesses It was the center of the city's nightlife and the source of suffering violence exploitation and a venereal disease epidemic For Phung a popular writer and intellectual it also raised disturbing questions about the state of Vietnamese society and culture and whether his country really was progressing under French colonial rule Translator Shaun Kingsley Malarney's thoughtful and multifaceted introduction provides historical background on colonialism prostitution and venereal disease in Vietnam and discusses reportage as a literary genre political tool and historical source A fully annotated translation of Luc Xi follows in which Phung takes readers into the heart of colonial Hanoi's sex industry portraying its female workers the officials who attempted to regulate it the doctors who treated its victims and the secretive medical facility known as the Nha Luc Xi The Dispensary which examined prostitutes for venereal diseases and held them for treatment Drawing from his interviews with doctors officials and prostitutes and the writings of French doctors on prostitution and venereal disease Phung provides a rare firsthand look at the damage caused by the commercial sex industry His sympathetic portrayal of the Vietnamese underclass is considered one of the most accurate but he also provides one of the most acerbic humorous and critical views of the changes wrought by colonialism in Southeast Asia Undesirable Jennifer Anne Boittin, 2022-11-01 Archival research into policing and surveillance of migrant women illuminates pressing contemporary issues Examining little known policing archives in France Senegal and Cambodia Jennifer Anne Boittin unearths the stories of hundreds of women labeled undesirable by the French colonial police and society in the early twentieth century These undesirables were often women traveling alone women who were poor or ill women of color or women whose intimate lives were deemed unruly To refute the label and be able to move freely they spoke out or wrote impassioned letters some emphasized their undesirable qualities to suggest that they needed the care and protection of the state to support their movements while others used the empire's own laws around Frenchness and mobility to challenge state or societal interference Tacking between advocacy and supplication these women summoned intimate details to move beyond contest or confound surveillance efforts bringing to life a practice that Boittin terms passionate mobility In considering how ordinary women pursued autonomy security companionship or simply a better existence in the face of surveillance and control Undesirable illuminates pressing contemporary issues of migration and violence Gazetteer to AMS 1:250,000 Maps of Indochina (series L509) United States.
