Maeve Brennan Edward O'Rourke, 2024-10-30 This book explores the intricate interplay between physical spaces and psychological landscapes in the works of Irish American author Maeve Brennan

Brennan's writing is now classed amongst the most important of twentieth century Irish women's fiction having undergone a significant reclamation and reappraisal in the 30 years since her death. Single and childfree for most of her life Brennan eschewed the securities of family and home experiencing an otherness that she shared with her fellow New Yorkers many of them left she wrote hanging on to a city half capsized most of them still able to laugh as they cling to the island that is their life's predicament. It is a suitably ambiguous expression for a writer who cultivated an interstitial existence whose stories inhere within a dream cycle of reiterative pasts and whose works augment and elevate the canon of radical Irish fiction.

Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1972 The Book Review Digest, 2006 Still No Word From You Peter Orner, 2023-10-24 Longlisted for the PEN Diamonstein Spielvogel Award for the Art of the Essay. A new collection of pieces on literature and life by the author of Am I Alone Here a finalist for the NBCC Award for Criticism. Stationed in the South Pacific during World War II Seymour Orner wrote a letter every day to his wife Lorraine. She seldom responded leading him to plead in 1945 'Another day and still no word from you'. Seventy years later Peter Orner writes in response to his grandfather's plea 'Maybe we read because we seek that word from someone from anyone'. From the acclaimed fiction writer about whom Dwight Garner of The New York Times wrote 'You know from the second you pick him up that he's the real deal' comes Still No Word from You a unique chain of essays and intimate stories that meld the lived life and the reading life. For Orner there is no separation. Covering such well known writers as Lorraine Hansberry, Primo Levi and Marilynne Robinson as well as other greats like Maeve Brennan and James Alan McPherson Orner's highly personal take on literature alternates with his own true stories of loss and love, hope and despair. In his mother's copy of A Coney Island of the Mind he's stopped short by a single word in the margin: YES which leads him to conjure his mother at twenty three. He stops reading Penelope Fitzgerald's The Beginning of Spring three quarters of the way through because he knows that finishing the novel will leave him bereft. Orner's solution is to start again from the beginning to slow the inevitable heartache. Still No Word from You is a book for anyone for whom reading is as essential as breathing.

Irish Women Writers and the Modern Short Story Elke D'hoker, 2016-07-28 This book traces the development of the modern short story in the hands of Irish women writers from the 1890s to the present. George Egerton, Somerville and Ross, Elizabeth Bowen, Mary Lavin, Edna O'Brien, Anne Enright and Claire Keegan are only some of the many Irish women writers who have made lasting contributions to the genre of the modern short story yet their achievements have often been marginalized in literary histories which typically define the Irish short story in terms of its oral heritage, nationalist concerns, rural realism and outsider hero. Through a detailed investigation of the short fiction of fifteen prominent writers this study aims to open up this critical conceptualization of the Irish short story to the formal properties and thematic concerns women writers bring to the genre. What stands out in thematic terms is an abiding interest in human relations whether of love, the family or the larger community. In formal terms this book traces the overall development of the Irish short story highlighting both the lines of
