Hinnershitz, 2021-10-01 Between 1942 and 1945 the U S government wrongfully imprisoned thousands of Japanese American citizens and profited from their labor Japanese American Incarceration recasts the forced removal and incarceration of approximately 120 000 Japanese Americans during World War II as a history of prison labor and exploitation Following Franklin Roosevelt s 1942 Executive Order 9066 which called for the exclusion of potentially dangerous groups from military zones along the West Coast the federal government placed Japanese Americans in makeshift prisons throughout the country In addition to working on day to day operations of the camps Japanese Americans were coerced into harvesting crops digging irrigation ditches paving roads and building barracks for little to no compensation and often at the behest of privately run businesses all in the name of national security How did the U S government use incarceration to address labor demands during World War II and how did imprisoned Japanese Americans respond to the stripping of not only their civil rights but their labor rights as well Using a variety of archives and collected oral histories Japanese American Incarceration uncovers the startling answers to these questions Stephanie Hinnershitz s timely study connects the government s exploitation of imprisoned Japanese Americans to the history of prison labor in the United States Narratives of Confinement in American Literature Firuze Güzel, 2025-10-06 American literature has a rich potential for delivering the narratives of the American people who are often confined by their race ethnicity gender social class economic situation or in very simple terms by the conditions of their birth In this context the volume focuses on the confinement narratives within the products of literature with a wide array of chapters from different periods of American literary history Your Life is a Book Brenda Peterson, Sarah Jane Freymann, 2014-10-14 Learn how to write your memoir
