The Biopolitics of Care in Second World War Britain Kimberly Mair, 2022-01-13 During the crisis of the Second World War in Britain official Air Raid Precautions made the management of daily life a moral obligation of civil defence by introducing new prescriptions for the care of homes animals and persons displaced through evacuation This book examines how the Mass Observation movement recorded and shaped the logics of care that became central to those daily routines in homes and neighbourhoods Kimberly Mair looks at how government publicity campaigns communicated new instructions for care formally while the circulation of wartime rumours negotiated these instructions informally These rumours she argues explicitly repudiated the improper socialization of evacuees and also produced a salient but contested image of the host as a good wartime citizen who was impervious to the cultural invasion of the ostensibly animalistic dirty and destructive house guest Mair also considers the explicit contestations over the value of the lives of pets conceived as animals who do not work with animal caregivers whose use of limited provisions or personal sacrifice could then be judged in the context of wartime hardship Together formal and informal instructions for caregiving reshaped everyday habits in the war years to an idealized template of the good citizen committed to the war and nation with Mass Observation enacting a watchful form of care by surveilling civilian feeling and habit in the process

Advocacy in Health Care Joan H. Marks, 2012-12-06 The roles of both the consumer and the health advocate professional have become increasingly significant in today's climate of rationed health care It seems clear that the timely exchange of ideas among seasoned health care advocates is necessary if we are to deal with the complex problems of a technologically advanced society seeking to ration its health care in a truly humane way Toward such a timely exchange the first Conference on Advocacy in Health Care was organized by the Health Advocacy Program of Sarah Lawrence College and recently held Advocacy in Health Care The Power of a Silent Constituency is the proceedings of the conference and will we believe greatly extend our efforts to share both the problems and solutions that effective patient advocacy entails Never before has the issue of advocating for special population groups by combining the resources of consumers and professionals been the exclusive focus of one volume This book discusses the power of such an alignment and describes specific organizational techniques that have been effective in bringing about changes in the delivery system The final section of the book Questions Comments and Answers presents a selection of topics of special interest that surfaced during the open discussion at the last conference session The comments were forthright in their criticism of public policy and the vigor of the argument underscored the vitality of the coalition between professionals and consumers Ordered to Care Susan M. Reverby, Susan Reverby, 1987-08-28 An engaging study of the dilemmas faced by American nursing which examines the ideology practice and efforts at reform of both trained and untrained nurses in the years between 1850 and 1945 Ordered to Care provides an overall history of nursing's development and places that growth within the context of topical questions raised by women's history and the social history of health care Building upon extensive use of primary and quantitative data the author creates a collective portrait of nursing from the work of the individual nurse to the political efforts of its organizations Dr Reverby contends that nursing's contemporary difficulties are caused by its historical obligation to care in a society that refuses to value caring She examines the historical consequences of this critical dilemma and concludes with a discussion of why nursing will have to move beyond its obligation to care and what the implications of this change would be
