Margins In The Classroom Teaching Literature:

Margins in the Classroom Kostas Myrsiades, Linda S. Myrsiades, 1994 Certainty was first published in 1981 Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original University of Minnesota Press editions Philosophers have traditionally used two strategies to refute the sceptical that empirical knowledge is not possible because our beliefs cannot be adequately justified One strategy rejects the sceptics position because it conflicts with the supposedly obvious claim that we do have knowledge The other defends an analysis of knowledge limited to a weak set of necessary and sufficient conditions of knowledge or limited to a set of conditions specifically designed to be immune to sceptical attack In Certainty A Refutation of Scepticism Peter D Klein uses a third strategy He argues that scepticism can be refuted even if it is granted to the sceptics that knowledge entails absolute certainty The argument for his thesis has two parts He identifies the various types of scepticism and shows that the arguments for them depend upon epistemic principles which when examined carefully are unable to support the sceptical conclusions Klein then argues contrary to the views of most nonsceptics that knowledge entails certainty and that some empirical beliefs are absolutely certain In the course of his argument Klein develops and defends an account of justification knowledge and certainty The result is a theory of knowledge based upon a model of justification designed to be acceptable to sceptics nonsceptics foundationalists and coherentists Teaching Literary Research Kathleen A. Johnson, Steven Robert Harris, 2009 Toward a Literacy of Promise Linda A. Spears-Bunton, Rebecca Powell, 2012-08-21 This book gives us strategies for bringing life back to school it allows us to think creatively about connecting instruction to the lives of children who have not been well served it helps us learn to value the gifts with words our children of color bring and it gives us hope for educating a generation that can change the status quo that will build the America we have yet to see the one that made that as yet unfulfilled promise of liberty and justice for all Lisa Delpit From the Foreword Toward a Literacy of Promise examines popular assumptions about literacy and challenges readers to question how it has been used historically both to empower and to oppress The authors offer an alternative view of literacy a literacy of promise that charts an emancipatory agenda for literacy instructional practices in schools Weaving together critical perspectives on pedagogy language literature and popular texts each chapter provides an in depth discussion that illuminates how a literacy of promise can be realized in school and classrooms Although the major focus is on African American middle and secondary students as a population that has experienced the consequences of inequality the chapters demonstrate general and specific applications to other populations Education and Cultural Studies Henry A. Reconstructing Architecture Thomas A. Dutton, Lian Hurst Mann, 1996 Reconstructing Architecture was first published in 1996 Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original University of Minnesota Press editions To create architecture is an inherently political act yet its nature as a social practice is often obscured beneath layers of wealth and privilege The contributors to this volume question architecture s complicity with the status quo moving beyond critique to outline the part architects are playing in building radical social movements and challenging dominant forms of power The making of architecture is instrumental in the construction of our identities our differences the world around us much of what we know of institutions the distribution of power social relations and cultural values is mediated by the built environment Historically architecture has constructed the environments that house the dominant culture Yet as the essays in Reconstructing Architecture demonstrate there exists a strong tradition of critical practice in the field one that attempts to alter existing social power relations Engaging the gap between modernism and postmodernism each chapter addresses an oppositional discourse that has developed within the field and then reconstructs it in terms of a new social project feminism social theory environmentalism cultural studies race and ethnic studies and critical theory The activists and scholars writing here provide a clarion call to architects and other producers of culture challenging them to renegotiate their political allegiances and to help reconstruct a viable democratic life in the face of inexorable forces driving economic growth destroying global ecology homogenizing culture and privatizing the public realm Reconstructing Architecture reformulates the role of architecture in society as well as its capacity to further a progressive social transformation Contributors Sherry Ahrentzen U of Wisconsin Milwaukee Bradford C Grant California Polytechnic State U San Luis Obispo Richard Ingersoll Rice U Margaret Soltan George Washington U Anthony Ward U of Auckland New Zealand Thomas A Dutton is an architect and

Antebellum American Women's Poetry Wendy Dasler Johnson, 2016-08-10 At a time when a woman speaking before a mixed gender audience risked acquiring the label promiscuous thousands of women presented their views about social or moral issues through sentimental poetry a blend of affect with intellect that allowed their participation in public debate Bridging literary and rhetorical histories traditional and semiotic interpretations Antebellum American Women's Poetry A Rhetoric of Sentiment explores an often overlooked yet significant and persuasive pre Civil War American discourse Considering the logos ethos and pathos aims writing personae and audience appeal of poems by African American abolitionist Frances Watkins Harper working class prophet Lydia Huntley Sigourney and feminist socialite Julia Ward Howe Wendy Dasler Johnson demonstrates that sentimental poetry was an important component of antebellum social activism She articulates the ethos of the poems of Harper who presents herself as a properly domestic black woman nevertheless stepping boldly into Northern pulpits to insist slavery be abolished the poetry of Sigourney whose speaker is a feisty working class ambiguously gendered prophet and the works of Howe who juggles her fame as the reformist Battle Hymn lyricist and motherhood of five children with an erotic Continental sentimentalism Antebellum American Women's Poetry makes a strong case for restoration of a compelling system of persuasion through poetry usually dismissed from studies of rhetoric This remarkable book will change the way we think about women's rhetoric in the nineteenth century inviting readers to hear and respond to urgent muffled appeals for justice in our own day The Education Assemblage Greg Thompson, 2020-04-28 This collection works with the philosophy of Gilles Deleuze and his collaborator Felix Guattari in the context of education Deleuze once remarked that we get the philosophy we deserve because of the questions that we ask Deleuze saw that the work of philosophy was the creation of concepts those working with his theory are admonished not to follow but to think For Deleuze education remained a philosophical problem because it is connected to problems of language authority meaning and what it means to learn and think With that in mind these contributions were chosen because they apply this ethic to education to think again about what constitutes a problem In this book Deleuze's conceptual contributions such as affect assemblage the logic of sense and control society and modulation are put to work to consider various educational problems in educational settings What brings these contributions together apart from working with Deleuze is that they present education as a problem requiring new concepts Readers are invited into an encounter with Deleuze's thought because of the situations in which we find ourselves The chapters in this book were originally published as journal articles by Taylor and Francis journals
