Marie Curie in 90 Minutes John R. Gribbin, Mary Gribbin, 1997 Everybody knows the names of the great scientists but how many of us know anything about their work let alone their private lives This easy to read series enables each of us to become an instant expert

Mendel in 90 Minutes John Gribbin, Mary Gribbin, 1997 In this easy to read series eminent science writers John and Mary Gribbin look at the lives and work of eight major scientists Each book is accessible enough to be read for fun but informative enough to appeal to students of science The iconic Albert Einstein emerges as a dashing ladies man and the greatest scientist of his time but why did Charles Darwin wait for decades before going public with his ideas on evolution How was Marie Curie s great work shaped by her childhood experiences of oppression under the Czars And what was Edmond Halley of comet fame doing as Captain of a King s Ship and later spy for the Crown An introduction and afterword places each scientist s work in the context of the development of their subject

Morning Light Moments Xena Mindhurst, AI, 2025-01-25 Morning Light Moments reveals how aligning daily routines with natural circadian rhythms can enhance mental clarity emotional resilience and productivity Blending sleep science with practical guidance the book positions morning light exposure and intentional habits as biological imperatives rather than lifestyle choices

Groundbreaking research shows how the brain s master clock the suprachiasmatic nucleus governs everything from cortisol spikes to melatonin release processes that modern lifestyles disrupt through artificial light and erratic schedules The book highlights striking connections between dawn light exposure and reduced depression risk plus how morning exercise boosts BDNF proteins that rewire the brain for better learning Structured in three clear sections the work first decodes chronobiology using landmark studies then links circadian alignment to psychological benefits like improved focus and work life balance Final chapters offer adaptable strategies including gradual wake time adjustments and light showers mimicking natural dawn Unique insights emerge from shift workers success stories and neuroscience findings that challenge rigid early bird stereotypes By framing biological harmony as foundational to sustainable success this guide stands apart through its evidence based yet flexible approach perfect for professionals seeking energy management over hustle culture Accessible analogies like jet lag without travel make complex science actionable for anyone wanting to transform mornings into a pillar of holistic health important part of the regular training required for workers in oil and gas production refinery and petrochemical manufacturing and in certain types of mining Proper handling of NORM contaminated wastes and use of appropriate radiation detection and protective equipment are now understood to be important components of good worker safety programs Until now no practical easy to read book was available to supplement worker training courses on NORM management Naturally Occurring Radioactive Materials Principles and Practices fills this void by providing in a single publication an ideal reference for industry managers supervisors and line personnel The book stresses the proper handling and management of NORM contaminated wastes and provides a firm understanding of the chemical properties of radioactive agents their toxicological effects and the appropriate containerization and disposal methods for these materials Catalog of Captioned Films for the Deaf ,1985 Healthy Habits Xena Mindhurst, AI, 2025-01-25 Healthy Habits Science Backed Routines for Mental and Physical Well Being redefines health as a product of small sustainable actions rather than drastic lifestyle changes Centered on three pillars mental resilience physical vitality and social connectivity the book argues that well being thrives when these elements work in harmony It challenges the myth that willpower alone drives success showing instead how micro habits like five minutes of daily breathing exercises rewire the brain over time reducing stress and boosting energy Intriguingly it highlights social bonds as a longevity booster citing studies where strong relationships cut disease risk as effectively as quitting smoking The book stands out by blending neuroscience sociology and public health without jargon Chapters progress from debunking wellness myths to offering flexible templates for habit building like pairing a morning stretch with a gratitude practice Instead of rigid rules it emphasizes adaptability for example explaining why consistent bedtimes matter more than total sleep hours Practical tools such as self assessment quizzes help readers identify keystone habits that spark broader change Unlike trend driven guides Healthy Habits prioritizes low cost strategies from walkable commutes to mindful meal prep making well being accessible to busy adults By framing health as a dynamic process not a fixed goal this guide empowers readers to craft personalized routines that endure one tiny science backed step at a time Curie in 90 Minutes Gribbin, John, 1997 Book Review Index ,1998 Every 3rd issue is a quarterly cumulation The Magic Zone Ralph Gunther, 2003 The present volume introduces the reader to a wide range of information about the men and women who won Nobel Prizes Excerpts from their life histories from their achievements in the sciences and arts are interspersed with an array of anecdotes and chance occurrences which make for highly entertaining reading Between 1901 and 2002 more than seven hundred people were awarded Nobel Prizes Covering a time span of 102 years the book contains more than two hundred well researched sketches and the notion that if history is the essence of many biographies the biographies of the Nobel laureates alone can throw a prominent light on the twentieth century and the beginning of the twenty first 26th European Symposium on Computer Aided Process Engineering ,2016-06-17 26th European Symposium on Computer Aided Process Engineering contains the papers presented at the 26th
