Trade, Traders and Trading in Rural Java Jennifer Alexander, 1987 In small towns throughout Java thousands of traders gather twice each week for a few hours of frenetic buying and selling This important phenomenon of the Javanese rural economy is here examined from various perspectives as a material exchange of commodities a social system of traders credit suppliers and other market participants and a structured flow of information that can be analyzed through recent anthropological and economic theories Market Trade in Rural Java Glen Chandler, 1984 Accounting for Services Daan Marks, 2009 The most intriguing question about Indonesia s economic development during the twentieth century is why the country s growth performance has been so erratic and displayed such a high degree of discontinuity This is connected with the fundamental question about the nature of long run economic development in Indonesia So far the economic historiography of Indonesia has been less systematic than what the available source material would permit Indonesia is exceptionally well endowed with rich statistical sources which carry the potential of supporting a rigorous and systematic quantitative approach to vital questions concerning the economic growth performance in the long run This book takes such an approach and presents new estimates for the long run growth of the Indonesian service sector and analyses the role of the various service sectors in economic development Linking empirical and theoretical analysis in a creative fashion Daan Marks provides a rich and original contribution to our understanding of the economic history of Indonesia He shows that the service sector has played a crucial role in Indonesia s economic development Or in other words to fully understand Indonesia s economic development path services need to be accounted for Values and Participation Bambang Budijanto, 2009

Elson,2016-01-13 This book analyses the changing context and conditions of production and livelihood amongst Southeast Asia s peasants since the beginning of the nineteenth century It argues that with demographic growth and the nineteenth century development of great global markets based on small scale production the size and economic significance of peasantries throughout the region was magnified However such changes brought with them new forces stronger states more regular legal systems a revolution in communications intensive commercialisation which themselves worked to undermine the foundations of peasant society and eventually to transform peasants into farmers workers and citizens A Handbook of Economic Anthropology Carrier, James G.,2022-05-13 This timely Research Agenda examines the ways in which public private partnerships PPPs in infrastructure continue to excite policy makers governments research scholars and critics around the world It analyzes the PPP research journey to date and articulates the lessons learned as a result of the increasing interest in improving infrastructure governance Expert international contributors explore how PPP ideas have spread transferred and transformed and propose a range of future research directions Market Frictions Kirsten W. Migration and Diaspora in Modern Asia Sunil S. Amrith, 2011-03-07 Migration is at the heart of Asian history For centuries migrants have tracked the routes and seas of their ancestors merchants pilgrims soldiers and sailors along the Silk Road and across the Indian Ocean and the China Sea Over the last 150 years however migration within Asia and beyond has been greater than at any other time in history Sunil S Amrith s engaging and deeply informative book crosses a vast terrain from the Middle East to India and China tracing the history of modern migration Animated by the voices of Asian migrants it tells the stories of those forced to flee from war and revolution and those who left their homes and their families in search of a better life These stories of Asian diasporas can be joyful or poignant but they all speak of an engagement with new landscapes and new peoples

Embedded Entrepreneurship: Market, Culture, and Micro-Business in Insular Southeast Asia, 2013-07-04 Embedded Entrepreneurship examines the importance of cultural meaning in the creation and utilization of economic value Based on case studies from Thailand Malaysia Singapore and

Indonesia the authors demonstrate that micro scale entrepreneurship is intertwined with prevailing conceptions moralities and habituations in the entrepreneurs social milieu More specifically the volume argues that meaning making is integral to economic opportunity that economic actors market agency is shaped by cultural experiences that entrepreneurs prototypical individualism is socially contingent and that cultural meanings channel economic value among economic and social domains Addressing core questions about embedding the authors suggest theoretical convergences between economic anthropology and economic sociology Contributors include Signe Howell Ingrid Rudie Leif Manger Olaf H Smedal Frode F Jacobsen Kristianne Ervik Anette Fagertun Lars Gjelstad Nils Hidle Anja Lillegraven Solgunn Olsen and Ingvild Solvang

The Contributions of Infrastructure to Economic Development Christine Kessides, 1993-01-01 This paper reviews the linkages between infrastructure and economic development based on both formal empirical research and informal case studies The main thesis is that economic benefits result from investments in infrastructure only to the extent that they generate a sustainable flow of services valued by consumers Thus an analysis of infrastructures contributions to growth must look at the impacts of services as actually perceived not at indirect indicators that measure only aggregate provision of infrastructure capital The paper notes that macro and industry level research although having its limitations suggest a positive and statistically significant relationship between infrastructure and economic output However the conclusions derived from this research most of which derives from developed countries provide little specific guidance for policy To gain more practical insights about how infrastructure contributes to economic growth and to improved quality of life and to understand the welfare costs of inadequate or unreliable infrastructure it is necessary to look at microeconomic evidence Particularly interesting illustrations of these relationships are to be found in developing countries where there is wide variance in the availability and quality of infrastructure

Women Traders in Cross-Cultural Perspective Linda J. Seligmann, 2002-03-01 This innovative volume studies women as economic political and cultural mediators of space gender value and language in informal markets Drawing on diverse methodologies multisited fieldwork linguistic analysis and archival research the contributors demonstrate how women move between and knit together household and marketplace activities This knitting together pivots on how household practices and economies are translated and transferred to the market as well as how market practices and economic principles become integral to the nature and construction of the household Exploring the cultural identities and economic practices of women traders in ten diverse locales Bolivia Ghana Hungary India Indonesia Mexico Morocco Nicaragua Peru and the Philippines the authors pay special attention to the effects of global forces national economic policies and nongovernmental organizations on women s participation in the market and the domestic sector The authors also consider the impact that women s economic and political activities in social movements public protests and more hidden kinds of subversive behavior have on state policy on the attitudes of different sectors of society toward female traders and on the dynamics of the market itself A final theme focuses on the cultural dimension of mediation Many women traders straddle cultural spheres and move back and forth between them Does this affect their participation in the market and their identities How do ties of ethnicity or acts of reciprocity affect the nature of commodity exchanges Do they create exchanges that are neither purely commodified nor wholly without calculation Or is it more often the case that ethnic commonalities and reciprocity merely mask the commodification of social and economic exchanges Does this straddling lead to the emergence of new kinds of hybrid identities and practices In considering these questions the authors specify the ways in which consumers contribute to identity formation among market women
