Marketing Classics A Selection Of Influential Articles By Enis Ben M:

Marketing Classics Ben M. Enis, Keith Kohn Cox, 1955 Writing Marketing Stephen Brown, 2005-09-15 Marketing is a very diverse discipline dealing with everything from the costs of globalization to the benefits of money back guarantees However there is one thing that all marketing academics share They are writers They publish or perish Their careers are advanced and their reputations are enhanced by the written word Despite its importance writing is rarely discussed much less written about by marketing scholars It is one of the least understood yet most significant academic competencies It is a competency in need of careful study Writing Marketing is the first such study It offers a detailed reading of five renowned marketing writers ranging from Ted Levitt to Morris Holbrook and draws lessons that can be adopted with profit by everyone else Although it is not a how to book there are no lengthy lists of dos and don ts Writing Marketing reveals that the rules of good writing are good for nothing Written by Stephen Brown whose own writing skills are much commented upon Writing Marketing is insightful illuminating and iconoclastic It is a must read for every marketing academic irrespective of their methodological inclinations or philosophical preferences Marketing Classics Ben M. Authoring A Discipline Maureen Daly Goggin, 2000-05-01 Authoring a Discipline traces the post World War II emergence of rhetoric and composition as a discipline within departments of English in institutions of higher education in the United States Goggin brings to light both the evolution of this discipline and many of the key individuals involved in its development Drawing on archival and oral evidence this history offers a comprehensive and systematic investigation of scholarly journals the editors who directed them and the authors who contributed to them demonstrating the influence that publications and participants have had in the emergence of rhetoric and composition as an independent field of study Goggin considers the complex struggles in which scholars and teachers engaged to stake ground and to construct a professional and disciplinary identity She identifies major debates and controversies that ignited as the discipline emerged and analyzes how the editors and contributors to the major scholarly journals helped to shape and in turn were shaped by the field of rhetoric and composition She also coins a new term disciplinographer to describe those who write the field through authoring and authorizing work thus creating the social and political contexts in which the discipline emerged The research presented here demonstrates clearly how disciplines are social products born of political struggles for both intellectual and material spaces
