Mission Financing To Realign National Defense:

Mission Financing to Realign National Defense L. R. Jones, Glenn C. Bixler, 1992 Volume 5 of a series presenting selected research papers that deal with important methodological and theoretical issues in the policy sciences with substantive research in policy related disciplines It emphasizes research relating to operations and design issues for government organizations

National Defense Budgeting and Financial Management Philip J. Candreva, 2024-01-01 Budgeting for national defense is a complex endeavor particularly for a nation like the U S that assumes global responsibility and strives to have the most advanced and lethal force on earth It is necessary and challenging to balance the myriad requirements between current and future readiness across warfare areas and military services between having state of the art capability with sufficient capacity and among people hardware and the activities people do with that hardware As analytically difficult as that problem is it is embedded in the political budgeting processes and national security must be balanced with every other function of government and there must also be cooperation across branches of government This text explores that complex endeavor It takes the position that budgeting for defense is a particular instance of public budgeting which is a particular instance of public policy Thus this text starts with a conceptual empirical and process foundation before discussing the participants and processes that build the annual defense budget It then covers the execution of that budget and the ultimate accounting Compared to the first edition this text is updated with current figures and examples There is a new chapter on determinants of military spending in society and burden sharing within alliances The chapter on budget execution has been disaggregated and a new chapter is devoted to fiscal law The final chapter seeks to integrate all that came before it by discussing matters that integrate the stages of budgeting and which cross branches of government Following in the tradition of the first edition this is intended to be both a textbook for a course in budgeting but also a desktop reference for defense budgeting practitioners

Financing National Defense Lawrence R. Jones, Philip J. Candreva, Marc R. DeVore, 2011-12-01 A myth from the colonial period was that Americans could defend themselves by keeping a rifle in the closet and when needed grab it and march off to battle in times of crisis Unfortunately providing national defense is more complicated than that indeed it was more complicated even during the Revolutionary war General George Washington's struggles to form a standing army supported by workable logistics and supply processes and to get funding for both from the Revolutionary Congress are well documented Financing national defense requires planning and resourcing in advance Reacting at the instant of crisis is too late Building an educated highly trained and capable Armed Forces and the acquisition of defense weapons and weapons systems has long lead times and involves making decisions the consequences of which are likely to last for decades These decisions include how to recruit and retain military and civilian personnel as well as designing buying and fielding a vast array of ground weapons ships aircraft and other weaponry A decision to buy a major defense weapons system for example sets in motion a chain of other decisions that will affect the U S its allies and enemies around the world Implementation of such decisions is financed through the U S federal government and Department of Defense budget processes in a planned yet highly and pluralistic and disaggregated system for determining how to advocate acquire and allocate scarce resources in a manner that culminates in congressional and presidential approval In this book we examine the concepts and practices of defense financing provide a detailed description and analysis of resource policy decision making financial management and budget execution processes and analyze the most significant features of the national defense and U S federal government resource decision and management system The book assesses the numerous factors including those that characterize the complex budget review and appropriation decision making dynamics of Congress that make U S defense finance and budgeting different from any other system in the world In addition in a concluding chapter the book compares U S defense policy and budgeting to other nations in different regions of the globe drawing conclusions about the effects of U S defense policy and defense financing abroad in regions including Europe Russia the Middle East and Asia

Budgeting, Financial Management, and Acquisition Reform in the U.S. Department of Defense Lawrence R. Jones, Jerry L. McCaffery, 2008-03-01 In this book we introduce the basics of the federal budget process provide an historical background on the foundation and development of the budget process indicate how defense spending may be measured and how it impacts the economy describe and analyze how Planning Programming Budgeting and Execution System PPBES operates and should function to produce the annual defense budget proposal to Congress analyze the role of Congress in debating and deciding on defense appropriations and the politics of the budgetary process including the use of supplemental appropriations to fund national defense analyze budget execution dynamics identify the principal participants in the defense budget process in the Pentagon and military commands assess federal and Department of Defense DoD financial management and business process challenges and issues and describe the processes used to resource acquisition of defense war fighting assets including reforms in acquisition and linkages between PPBES and the defense acquisition process

From Bureaucracy to Hyperarchy in Netcentric and Quick Learning Organizations Lawrence R. Jones, Fred Thompson, 2007-02-01 This book focuses on the inherent contradiction between bureaucracy hierarchy and the vision inspired by the architecture of modern information technology of a more egalitarian culture in public organizations We agree with Evans and Wurster and others who have argued that in the future knowledge based productive relationships will be designed around fluid teambased collaborative communities either within organizations i e deconstructed value chains or in collaborative alliances such as those with amorphous and permeable corporate boundaries characteristic of companies in the Silicon Valley that is deconstructed supply chains In such relationships everyone can communicate richly with everyone else on the basis of shared standards and like the Internet itself these relationships will eliminate the need to channel information thereby eliminating the trade off between information bandwidth and connectivity The possibility or the threat of random access and information symmetry they conclude will destroy all hierarchies whether of logic or power Budgeting and Financial Management in the Federal Government Jerry L. McCaffery, Lawrence R.

Jones, 2002-02-01 Mission Statement The mission of the book series is to be consistent with the mission statement of the International Public Management Network IPMN that will sponsor the series The mission of IPMN and the book series is to provide a forum for sharing ideas concepts and results of research and practice in the field of public management and to stimulate critical thinking about alternative approaches to problem solving and decision making in the public sector The book series editors will seek to facilitate exchange and cooperative work among scholars interested in transformational change in the public sector in individual nations and around the world Our intent will be to create and sustain a dialogue on emerging management concepts methods and technology so that readers can learn about innovation and change in public sector organizations throughout the world IPMN presently includes members representing 70 different countries approximately 600 representatives from these nations As such we have a solid base of subscription support for the book series within IPMN For more information on IPMN see the website at <http://www.willamette.org/ipmn/about.html> In addition we want the series to appeal to members of the Public Sector section of the Academy of Management and to the members of the Association for Public Policy Analysis and Management Both editors belong to and participate actively in AOM and APPAM

Handbook of Public Policy Evaluation Stuart S. Nagel, 2001-12-13 Handbook of Public Policy Evaluation is the only book of its kind to present aspects of public policy evaluation that relate to economic technology social political international and legal problems Rather than looking at specific narrowly focused programs this book emphasizes broad based evaluation theory study and application providing a rich variety of exceptional insights and ideas Designed to facilitate integration and coherence key features in this volume include Systematic evaluation measuring the policy alternatives available for achieving goals Win win evaluation processing policy alternatives that can enable conservatives liberals and other major viewpoints to all come out ahead of their best initial expectations simultaneously Policy evaluation offering methods examples studies professionalism perspectives concepts trends substance theory applications dispute resolution interdisciplinary interaction and bibliographies and applications The book targets the need for improvement in the methods processes and substance of public policy and opens the gate of public policy to be more effective efficient and equitable Policymakers administrators analysts and practitioners alike will find the Handbook a necessary resource of alternative public policies that are placed in context with a direct course to positive results

Public Policy Evaluation Stuart S. Nagel, 2018-08-13 First published in 1998 this volume examines how super optimum decisions involve finding alternatives to controversies whereby Conservatives Liberals or other major groups can all come out ahead of their best initial expectations simultaneously This book is organised in terms of concepts methods causes process substance and the policy studies profession Concepts clarify that policy evaluation traditionally involves 1 Goals to be achieved 2 Alternatives available for achieving them 3 Relations between goals and alternatives 4 Drawing a conclusion as to the best alternative in light of the goals alternatives and relations and 5

Analysing how the conclusion would change if there were changes in the goals alternatives or relations Super optimizing also involves five related steps but with the following improvements 1 Goals are designed as conservative liberal or neutral 2 Alternatives get the same designations 3 Relations are simplified to indicate which alternatives are relatively high or low on each goal 4 The conclusion involves arriving at an alternative that does better on Goal A than Alternative A and simultaneously better on Goal B than Alternative B and 5 The fifth step involves analysing the super optimum or win win alternative in terms of its feasibility as to the economic technological psychological political administrative and legal matters
