Transforming Rural and Urban Spaces in South Africa During the 1990s Ronnie Donaldson, Lochner Marais, 2002 The Ambiguous Champion Linda Freeman, 1997 The Ambiguous

Champion is the First Comprehensive and critical study of Canadian foreign policy towards South Africa Freeman challenges the conventional belief that successive Canadian governments took the high road leading the international struggle against apartheid She shows that Canadian policy like the policy of other Western states was complex ambiguous and contradictory Freeman s approach offers an alternative understanding of the forces shaping Canadian foreign policy Legend has it that Canadian prime ministers from Diefenbaker to Mulroney led the way in the international campaign against the apartheid state in South Africa Yet before Mulroney came to power except on a few occasions in the Commonwealth Canadian prime ministers did little to support the anti apartheid cause While Mulroney did significantly better invoking concrete economic sanctions and tackling Margaret Thatcher within the Commonwealth the policies of his government were compromised and limited the claims made for it excessive The state championed a cause but followed through in a highly ambiguous way Central to the explanation is an exploration of the influence groups within civil society especially the private sector on the formation of state policy Attention is also given to the way which churches trade unions universities anti apartheid groups and the media played in calling for a stronger Canadian policy against apartheid The approach offers an alternative way of understanding how foreign policy is made which goes beyond the South African case The Ambiguous Champion will challenge scholars in Canada and abroad in their analyses of relations with South Africa It is a major contribution to both the history and theory of Canadian foreign policy

South Africa-- the Present as History John S. Saul, Patrick Bond, 2014 A new history of South Africa that examines today s post apartheid society through the lens of its earlier history

Building a New South Africa Marc Van Ameringen (ed), 1995 From 1991 to 1995 IDRC conducted a series of missions in South Africa to assist that country in its transition to democracy The reports of these missions earlier ones with an analysis of their impact are presented together for the first time as four volumes in this set

International Perspectives in Urban Studies ,1995 Change and Continuity in Spatial Planning Vanessa

Watson, 2003-12-16 Change and Continuity in Spatial Planning addresses a question of enduring interest to planners can planning really bring about significant and positive change In South Africa the process of political transition appeared to create the preconditions for planners to demonstrate how their traditional humanitarian and environmental concerns could find concrete expression in the reshaping of the built environment Integral to this story is how planning practices have been shaped by the past in a rapidly changing context characterised by a globalising economy new systems of governance a changing political ideology and a culture of intensifying poverty and diversity More broadly the book addresses the issue of how planners use power in situations which themselves represent networks of power relations where both planners and those they engage with operate through frames of reference fundamentally shaped by place and history Atlas of

Changing South Africa A.J. Christopher, 2002-01-04 The new edition of the atlas first published as The Atlas of Apartheid presents a comprehensive introduction and detailed analysis of the spatial impact of apartheid in South Africa It covers the period of the National Party Government of 1948 to 1994 and emphasises the changes and the continuing legacy this presents to South Africans at the start of the 21st century The Atlas makes the unique contribution of presenting the policy and its impact in visual spatial forms by including over 70 maps a highly appropriate method considering that apartheid was about the control of space and specific places Land & Local Government in the Kei & Eastern Cape Regions Matthew
