

The West Of Ireland And The Atlantic Coast

Sea, Sky and Mountain

The Cliffs of Moher, P. H. Henry

The winds that blow so frequently over Ireland have played a major part in shaping both her landscape and history. They are a constant factor in the climate and there are few days in the year when the air is still. Savage western gales from the Atlantic, icy gusts crossing Europe from Siberia and warm African breezes originating in the Sahara, all end up on the Irish shores. These never-ending patterns of winds cause the changes in light which make the landscape hazy and moored on one day and bright and clear on another.

Donough, P. H. Henry

Ireland, particularly in its western regions, is a land of horizons made glorious by towering, cloudy skies. The artist Paul Henry captured this aspect brilliantly in his landscape paintings, placing huddled cottages against dark hills and mountains dwarfed by huge skies. More than anything else, perhaps, the relationship between the western coasts and the world beyond is defined by the vast emptiness that stretches to the western horizon from cliffs where the land deeply meets the wild Atlantic sea.

The unique western Irish landscape must be amongst the most beautiful in the world. Since man first arrived on these coasts, great forests of oak and elm have disappeared from the slopes of the mountains, while blanket bogs have formed a shroud over arable lands that once held the settlements of Neolithic pastoralists. Yet the bones of the land remain the same; now, as then, its impressive peaks still rise from the western edge of Ireland to break the flatness of her central plains.

The Gallarus Window, Douglas, Co. Kerry

Like human beings everywhere, the Irish have given a central role to mountains in their mythology as the homes of the Gods. Yet the meanness of the comparatively low Irish peaks suggests an unconscious intimacy between the deities of the high places and

Real Ireland People Landscape:

Real Ireland Liam Blake, Brendan Kennelly, 1984 The Real Ireland Harvey O'Brien, 2004 The Real Ireland is the first study of Irish documentary film but more than that it is a study of Ireland itself of how the idea of Ireland evolved throughout the twentieth century and how documentary cinema both recorded and participated in the process of change More than just a film studies work it is a discussion of history politics and culture which also explores the philosophical roots of the documentary idea and how this idea informs concepts of society self and nation It features rare and previously unseen illustrations and a detailed documentary filmography the first of its kind in print anywhere Real Ireland Brendan Kennelly, 1984-03-01 Landscapes of Neolithic Ireland Gabriel Cooney, 2012-12-06 Landscapes of Neolithic Ireland is the first volume to be devoted solely to the Irish Neolithic using an innovative landscape and anthropological perspective to provide significant new insights on the period Gabriel Cooney argues that the archaeological evidence demonstrates a much more complex picture than the current orthodoxy on Neolithic Europe with its assumption of mobile lifestyles suggests He integrates the study of landscape settlement agriculture material culture and burial practice to offer a rounded realistic picture of the complexities and the realities of Neolithic lives and societies in Ireland Ireland Andrew Halpin, Conor Newman, 2006 Ireland is a country rich in archaeological sites Ireland An Oxford Archaeological Guide provides the ultimate handbook to this fascinating heritage Covering the entire island of Ireland from Antrim to Wexford Dublin to Sligo the book contains over 250 plans and illustrations of Ireland's major archaeological treasures and covers sites dating from the time of the first settlers in prehistoric times right up to the seventeenth century The book opens with a useful introduction to the history of Ireland setting the archaeological material in its wider historical context and then takes the reader on an unparalleled journey through the major sites and places of interest Each chapter focuses on a particular geographical region and is introduced by a useful survey of the history and geography of the region in question This is followed by detailed descriptions of the major archaeological sites within each region arranged alphabetically and including travel directions historical overview of the site and details of the site's major features and the latest available archaeological evidence As the most comprehensive and detailed compact guide to the archaeological sites of Ireland this new volume will prove invaluable to archaeologists students of Irish history and tourists alike Medbh McGuckian Borbála Faragó, 2014-03-27 This book offers a wide ranging analysis of the entire corpus of Medbh McGuckian's published work Its objective is to provide both a readable synthesis of existing criticism in a fashion which will be generally useful to academics and students and also to offer an original contribution to the field of contemporary Irish literary studies on the basis of new research The book investigates a variety of previously neglected themes in particular McGuckian's exploration of ideas of creativity and performativity in her poetry Over the past two decades McGuckian has been recognized by both her fellow poets and by literary critics as one of the most original daring and important poetic voices in contemporary Ireland Since 1982 she has published fifteen volumes of poetry extraordinary not merely for its sustained quality and linguistic and technical virtuosity but also for its constant evolution and reinvention This book provides an original perspective on her work both thematically and methodologically From a thematic perspective the process of artistic creation is a key preoccupation of McGuckian's poetry which recurs in every volume of her oeuvre but has previously escaped critical attention By adapting and refining theories of singularity and creativity the book allows for a coherent analysis of this central aspect of McGuckian's work Methodologically it differs from previous studies in the scope of its approach Uniquely it pursues its investigation across the entire breadth of the poet's published output and emphasizes the thematic unity of individual volumes in the light of the poet's constant change and development Throughout the book the reading of McGuckian's work concentrates on poems in their entirety an approach which has not figured to any notable degree in the existing secondary literature on the poet not least because of the perceived difficulty of her writing A critical investigation however which respects both the integrity of the individual poems and the internal coherence of her various volumes allows for a far deeper understanding both of the poet's thematic preoccupations and of the evolution of her distinctive poetic voice

The Good Friday Agreement resulted in the cessation of paramilitary violence in Northern Ireland. However, prejudice and animosity between Protestants and Catholics remains. The Real Peace Process draws on extensive fieldwork in Protestant and Catholic churches across Ireland to analyse how Christian worship can become caught up in sectarianism. The book examines the need for a peace process that changes hearts and minds and not merely civic structures of their inhabitants. Aspects of everyday worship ranging from the spatial and symbolic to the verbal, musical, and interpersonal are explored as the means by which sectarianism can be challenged and transformed. Trollope On the Net Ellen Moody, 1999-01-01. This book takes up two topics. The first is the British novelist Anthony Trollope, 1815-1882, author of 47 novels and five volumes of short stories. The second is the Internet, specifically the creation of virtual communities through email and discussion lists, focusing naturally enough on discussion of the works of Trollope. The first chapter tells how the group began and focuses on the conversation that ensued on Trollope's first novel, The Macdermots of Ballycloran. The second chapter widens the discussion to take in all of Trollope's Irish novels. The third records the conversation of the group on Trollope's novel of jealousy, He Knew He Was Right. The fourth chapter discusses Trollope's shorter novels. The fifth returns to the group conversations; this time the discussion of The Claverings. The sixth chapter discusses the illustrations of Trollope's novels. The seventh chapter records the group conversation on Trollope's most class-ridden novel, Lady Anna. The eighth chapter discusses Trollope's life through his An Autobiography. The last chapter sets the group conversation on Can You Forgive Her? into the context of the Palliser or Parliamentary novel sequence. The Preface is by John Letts, Chairman of the British Trollope Society. The book contains twenty-four illustrations from the original editions of Trollope's novels. Rural Ireland, Real Ireland? Jacqueline Genet, 1996. This collection draws a picture of rural Ireland through Irish literature from the 18th century with William Chaigneau, Maria Edgeworth, and Lady Morgan, through the numerous rich productions of the 19th century up to the present time with Patrick Kavanagh and Flann O'Brien.
