Renewing Cities Ross J. Gittell, 2014-07-14 The cities of Lowell and New Bedford in Massachusetts Jamestown in New York and McKeesport in Pennsylvania have all undergone years of adversity and decline their economic bases having been badly damaged by structural changes in the national economy particularly in the manufacturing sector In situations like these can local development efforts make a difference Ross Gittell answers in the affirmative This interdisciplinary work focuses on comparative case studies of the four cities The book reveals how public private and community based local economic development initiatives affect local economic performance what works and what does not work City leaders and institutions can help reorganize and reshuffle local resources with results that include increased investment greater effort by local individuals and institutions more cooperation among different development interests and improvement in city economic positioning relative to the regional economy and local development cycles Gittell emphasizes the possibility of shifting from a zero sum game attracting jobs from elsewhere toward the goal of converting underutilized local resources to higher value uses through alternative forms of economic and political organization Originally published in 1992 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Renewing Cities with Value Capture Planning Raymond Rauscher, 2021-01-11 The book offers a model for city development and renewal based on land value capture called value capture Firstly a review is presented of cities around the world that are currently using value capture From these city examples the author shows how any state city or regional government can adopt value capture policies Looking at recent events the author reviews the implications of the coronavirus pandemic 2020 for future planning including value capture of cities and regions particularly noting healthy cities planning The development of a value capture planning VCP model is then outlined The basis of the model is reflected in its planning components being Housing affordable social and market housing Public and Open Spaces natural areas open spaces and public spaces and Sustainable Transport rail bus and active transport The VCP model is devised to provide an economic and planning tool that can be utilised in addressing each of these planning components This tool includes data entry tables and explanations of how these tables are applied Four case study cities within Australia currently undergoing renewal are selected for the model to be applied to The areas were chosen to represent contrasting urban settings and types of development and renewal including inner city middle ring city growth centre city and regional capital city The current 2020 active renewal programs within these areas include city in brackets Central to Eveleigh Renewal Area CERA City of Sydney

Sydenham to Bankstown Urban Renewal Corridor SBURC Canterbury Bankstown City Gosford City Centre Revitalisation GCCR area Gosford City and Newcastle City Renewal Area NCRA Newcastle City The reader is walked through graphically the backgrounds of these case study cities including geography development trends and details of renewal plans Conclusions on the VCP model application are outlined for each study area within that chapter and for the cumulative results across all study areas final chapter With these conclusions the application of the model to any city or region anywhere in the world is outlined Finally on a practical level the reader would be interested in how value capture is administered through programs including the roles of government developers and the community Summing up the book offers the reader an understanding of current city planning and the tools like value capture that will be required for future planning Renewing the City Robert D. Puckett, Mark Frazier Lloyd, 2015-03-26 The second half of the twentieth century saw the University of Pennsylvania grow in size as well as in stature On its way to becoming one of the world's most celebrated research universities Penn exemplified the role of urban renewal in the postwar redevelopment and expansion of urban universities and the indispensable part these institutions played in the remaking of American cities Yet urban renewal is only one aspect of this history Drawing from Philadelphia's extensive archives as well as the University's own historical records and publications John L Puckett and Mark Frazier Lloyd examine Penn's rise to eminence amid the social moral and economic forces that transformed major public and private institutions across the nation Becoming Penn recounts the shared history of university politics and urban policy as the campus grappled with twentieth century racial tensions gender inequality labor conflicts and economic retrenchment

Examining key policies and initiatives of the administrations led by presidents Gaylord Harnwell Martin Meyerson Sheldon Hackney and Judith Rodin Puckett and Lloyd revisit the actors organizations and controversies that shaped campus life in this turbulent era Illustrated with archival photographs of the campus and West Philadelphia neighborhood throughout the late twentieth century Becoming Penn provides a sweeping portrait of one university's growth and impact within the broader social history of American higher education The Oxford Handbook of Urban Planning Randall Crane, Rachel Weber, 2015 Why plan How and what do we plan Who plans for whom These three questions are then applied across three major topics in planning States Markets and the Provision of Social Goods The Methods and Substance of Planning and Agency Implementation and Decision Making Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs United States. town's commercial spine and served as the linchpin for community social solidarity. Yet during the past three decades a series of economic downturns has left many of the great small cities barely viable. American Hometown Renewal is the first book to combine administrative, budgetary and economic analysis to examine the economic and fiscal plight currently facing America's small towns. Featuring a blend of theory, applications and case studies, it provides a comprehensive single source textbook covering the key issues facing small town officials in today's uncertain economy. Written by a former public manager, university professor and consultant to numerous small towns in the Heartland, this book demonstrates the ways in which contemporary small towns throughout the nation are facing economic challenges brought about by the financial shocks that began in 2008. Each chapter explores a theme related to small town revival and provides a related tool or technique to enable small town officials to meet the challenges of the 21st Century. Encouraging local small town officials to look at the economic orbit of communities in a similar manner as a town's budget or a family's personal wealth, examining its specific competitive advantages in terms of relative assets to those of competing communities, this book provides the reader with step by step instructions on how to conduct an asset inventory and apply key asset tools to devise a strategy for overcoming the challenges and constraints imposed upon spatially fixed communities. American Hometown Renewal is an essential primer for students studying city management, economic community development and city planning, and will be a trusted handbook for city managers, geographers, city planners, urban or rural sociologists, political scientists and regional microeconomists.

Mall Maker M. Jeffrey Hardwick, 2015-08-18. The shopping mall is both the most visible and the most contentious symbol of American prosperity. Despite their convenience, malls are routinely criticized for representing much that is wrong in America: sprawl, conspicuous consumption, the loss of regional character and the decline of Mom and Pop stores. So ubiquitous are malls that most people would be surprised to learn that they are the brainchild of a single person, architect Victor Gruen. An immigrant from Austria who fled the Nazis in 1938, Gruen based his idea for the mall on an idealized America, the dream of concentrated shops that would benefit the businessperson as well as the consumer and that would foster a sense of shared community. Modernist Philip Johnson applauded Gruen for creating a true civic art and architecture that enriched Americans' daily lives, and for decades he received praise from luminaries such as Lewis Mumford, Winthrop Rockefeller and Lady Bird Johnson. Yet in the end, Gruen returned to Europe thoroughly disillusioned with his American dream. In Mall Maker, the first biography of this visionary spirit, M. Jeffrey Hardwick relates Gruen's successes and failures, his work at the 1939 World's Fair, his makeover of New York's Fifth Avenue boutiques, his rejected plans for reworking entire communities such as Fort Worth, Texas, and his crowning achievement, the enclosed shopping mall. Throughout, Hardwick illuminates the dramatic shifts in American culture during the mid-twentieth century, notably the rise of suburbia and automobiles, the death of downtown, and the effect these changes had on American life. Gruen championed the redesign of suburbs and cities through giant shopping malls, earnestly believing that he was promoting an American ideal: the ability to build a community. Yet as malls began covering the landscape and downtowns became more depressed Gruen became painfully aware that his dream of overcoming social problems through architecture and commerce was slipping away By the tumultuous year of 1968 it had disappeared Victor Gruen made America depend upon its shopping malls While they did not provide an invigorated sense of community as he had hoped they are enduring monuments to the lure of consumer culture Interstate System in the District of Columbia, Hearings Before the Subcommittee on Roads ... 90-2 United States.
