

Reopening schools during the COVID-19 pandemic: governments must balance the uncertainty and risks of reopening schools against the clear harms associated with prolonged closure

Russell M Viner ¹, Christopher Bonell,² Lesley Drake,³ Didier Jourdan,⁴ Nicolette Davies,⁵ Valentina Baltag,⁶ John Jerrim,⁷ Jenny Proimos,⁸ Ara Darzi⁵

Evidence to support the effectiveness of global school closures in controlling COVID-19 is sparse. There is continued uncertainty about the degree to which school children are susceptible to and transmit COVID-19. Balancing the potential benefits with harms involves explicit trade-offs for governments, but there has been little recognition that low-income and middle-income countries face a very different set of trade-offs around school reopening from those in wealthy countries.

Both reopening schools and keeping them closed carry risks that actively require mitigation.

Schools remain closed in many countries globally as part of efforts to control the COVID-19 pandemic.¹ National governments face mounting dilemmas about when and how to reopen schools. We review the benefits and risks of school closures during the COVID-19 pandemic and outline key principles for reopening schools.

Data from previous outbreaks suggest that schoolchildren may play only a relatively small role in the transmission of coronaviruses.² Data from COVID-19 are sparse. Those under 20 years appear to be around half as susceptible as adults to severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus 2,³⁻⁴ and much less likely to be symptomatic.⁵ Yet data on viral load suggest that children may have COVID-19 viral load similar to that of adults.⁶ Data on transmission in schools are sparse. Population-based contact-tracing data on transmission in schools in Australia have identified almost no transmission.⁴

Given this uncertainty, the impact of reopening schools on transmission and the potential for a second pandemic wave is unclear. However, there is no evidence that children are more likely to transmit than adults, unlike in some respiratory viruses. When children do get COVID-19, there is also clear evidence that they are very unlikely to have severe illness or die.⁴ Together these data suggest that children, particularly primary schoolchildren, are likely to be among the safer groups to begin relaxation of social distancing.

In contrast, the harms related to prolonged school closure are well documented.² In addition to impacts on learning, these include reductions in physical activity and a range of impacts on mental health and well-being due to social isolation, reduced social support, increased exposure to violence at home, exclusion of children from school-delivered public health interventions (eg, vaccination, worming and feeding programmes) and exclusion of the most vulnerable students from social safety nets operating through schools. Indirect harms to broader society include short-term loss of healthcare and other key workers, as well as reductions to broader productivity due to parental absenteeism from work. These harms are greater in more deprived families, thus worsening health and educational inequalities. Balancing the potential benefits with harms involves explicit trade-offs for governments, decisions that are not without significant risk.

The European Union recommends that relaxing of social distancing measures such as reopening schools should only occur after there is clear evidence that spread has decreased for a significant period, there is sufficient health system capacity to cope with future peaks, and countries have sufficient monitoring and testing capacity to quickly detect and isolate infected people.⁷ Some countries have never closed primary schools (Iceland, Sweden and Taiwan), and some have commenced reopening schools, for example, Denmark, Finland, Norway, France and Germany.

However, there has been little recognition that low-income and middle-income countries (LMICs) face a very different set of trade-offs around school reopening from those in wealthy countries. Low-income countries have much higher proportions of children in the population and smaller proportions of the elderly. Impacts of school closures on COVID-19 transmission are predicated on the effectiveness of wider approaches to social distancing while children are at home. While young people's adherence may be suboptimal in high-income countries, it is likely to be much less optimal in LMICs where broader distancing is challenged by population density and households being forced to leave their homes to access income, food and other necessities in the absence of social safety nets and distribution systems. Schools in LMICs also deliver a broader range of health interventions, with closures having significant impact on programme effectiveness. For example, mass drug administration for worm infection for one billion school-age children globally is currently stalled. School feeding programmes, a critical safety net in many societies, are also halted. The World Food Programme estimates that 370 million children are currently not receiving school meals,⁸ driving hunger, impacts on cognition and indirect effects on rural food chains.

Issues of inequality related to cessation of education have particular urgency in LMICs, especially for young women. Family poverty and hunger may require children and young people to gather food or seek work, and those who drop out are unlikely to return to school. School closures and disruption during the Ebola outbreaks in West Africa led to an increase in child marriages and failure to return to school postcrisis. Financial hardship and parent mortality may also result in girls leaving education to take on more

Reopening Of Closure Organicism Against Itself:

A Reopening of Closure Murray Krieger, 1989 Surveying the expanding conflict in Europe during one of his famous fireside chats in 1940 President Franklin Roosevelt ominously warned that we know of other methods new methods of attack The Trojan horse The fifth column that betrays a nation unprepared for treachery Spies saboteurs and traitors are the actors in this new strategy Having identified a new type of war a shadow war being perpetrated by Hitler s Germany FDR decided to fight fire with fire authorizing the formation of the Office of Strategic Services OSS to organize and oversee covert operations Based on an extensive analysis of OSS records including the vast trove of records released by the CIA in the 1980s and 90s as well as a new set of interviews with OSS veterans conducted by the author and a team of American scholars from 1995 to 1997 The Shadow War Against Hitler is the full story of America s far flung secret intelligence apparatus during World War II In addition to its responsibilities generating processing and interpreting intelligence information the OSS orchestrated all manner of dark operations including extending feelers to anti Hitler elements infiltrating spies and sabotage agents behind enemy lines and implementing propaganda programs Planned and directed from Washington the anti Hitler campaign was largely conducted in Europe especially through the OSS s foreign outposts in Bern and London A fascinating cast of characters made the OSS run William J Donovan one of the most decorated individuals in the American military who became the driving force behind the OSS s genesis Allen Dulles the future CIA chief who ran the Bern office which he called the big window onto the fascist world a veritable pantheon of Ivy League academics who were recruited to work for the intelligence services and not least Roosevelt himself A major contribution of the book is the story of how FDR employed Hitler s former propaganda chief Ernst Putzi Hanfstengl as a private spy More than a record of dramatic incidents and daring personalities this book adds significantly to our understanding of how the United States fought World War II It demonstrates that the extent and limitations of secret intelligence information shaped not only the conduct of the war but also the face of the world that emerged from the shadows Contemporary Perspectives on Architectural Organicism Gary Hua fan

He, Skender Luarasi, 2023-06-07 This project is born out of similar questions and discussions on the topic of organicism emergent from two critical strands regarding the discourse of organic self generation one dealing with the problem of stopping in the design processes in history and the other with the organic legacy of style in the nineteenth century as a preeminent form of aesthetic ideology The epistemologies of self generation outlined by enlightenment and critical philosophy provided the model for the discursive formations of modern urban planning and architecture The form of the organism was thought to calibrate modernism s infinite extension The architectural organicism of today does not take on the language of the biological sciences as they did in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries but rather the image of complex systems be they computational informational geo ecological or even ontological aesthetic networks What is retained from the modernity of yesterday is the ideology of endless self generation Revisiting such a topic feels relevant now in a time when the idea of endless generation is rendered more suspect than ever amid an ever increasing speed and complexity of artificial intelligence AI networks The essays collected in this book offer a variety of critiques of the modernist idea of endless growth in the fields of architecture literature philosophy and the history of science They range in scope from theoretical and speculative to analytic and critical and from studies of the history of modernity to reflections of our contemporary world Far from advocating a return to the romantic forms of nineteenth century naturphilosophie this project focuses on probing organicism for new forms of critique and emergent subjectivities in a contemporary post pandemic constellation of neo naturalism in design climate change complex systems and information networks This book will be of interest to a broad range of researchers and professionals in architecture and art history historians of science visual artists and scholars in the humanities more generally

Seamus Heaney as Aesthetic Thinker Eugene O'Brien, 2016-04-04 Seamus Heaney's unexpected death in August 2013 brought to completion his body of work and scholars are only now coming to understand the full scale and importance of this extraordinary career The Nobel Prize winning poet translator and playwright from the North of Ireland is considered the most important Irish poet after Yeats and at the time of his death arguably the most famous living poet For this reason much of the scholarship to date on Heaney has understandably focused on his poetry O'Brien's new work however focuses on Heaney's essays book chapters and lectures as it seeks to understand how Heaney explored the poet's role in the world By examining Heaney's prose O'Brien teases out a clearer understanding of Heaney's sense of the function of poetry as an act of public intellectual and ethical inquiry In doing so O'Brien reads Heaney as an aesthetic thinker in the European tradition considering him alongside Heidegger Derrida Lacan and Adorno Studying Heaney within this theoretical and philosophical tradition sheds new and useful light on one of the greatest creative minds of the twentieth century

The United Stories of America Rolf Lundén, 2022-06-08 This book discusses the American short story composite or short story cycle a neglected form of writing consisting of autonomous stories interlocking into a whole The critical work done on this genre has so far focused on the closural strategies of the composites on how unity is accomplished in these texts This study takes into consideration to a greater degree than earlier criticism the short story composite as an open work emphasizing the tension between the independent stories and the unified work between the discontinuity and fragmentation on the one hand and the totalizing strategies on the other The discussion of the genre is illustrated with references to numerous American short story composites

Three Steps on the Ladder of Writing Hélène Cixous, 1993 Three Steps on the Ladder of Writing is a poetic insightful and ultimately moving exploration of the strange science of writing In a magnetic irresistible narrative Cixous reflects on the writing process and explores three distinct areas essential for great writing The School of the Dead the notion that something or someone must die in order for good writing to be born The School of Dreams the crucial role dreams play in literary inspiration and output and The School of Roots the importance of depth in the nether realms in all aspects of writing Cixous's love of language and passion for the written word is evident on every page Her emotive style draws heavily on the writers she most admires the Brazilian novelist Clarice Lispector the Russian poet Marina Tsvetaeva the Austrian novelists Ingeborg Bachmann and Thomas Bernhard Dostoyevsky and most of all Kafka Counter-figures: An Essay on Anti-metaphoric Resistance. Paul Celan's Poetry and Poetics at the Limits of Figuralität Pajari Räsänen, 2007 The Poetics of Palliation Brittany Pladek, 2019 The Poetics of Palliation argues that Romanticism developed richer literary therapies than its contemporary reception remembers By reading Romantic writers against Georgian medical ethics Poetics recovers their models of literature as comfort and sustenance challenging a health humanities tradition that sees literary therapy primarily as cure The Event of Style in Literature M. Aquilina, 2014-09-16 The Event of Style in Literature brings discussions about the question of style up to date by schematising the principal issues relating to the topic through a critical overview of the canon of style studies It reads the work of Jacques Derrida Maurice Blanchot and Hans Georg Gadamer as groundbreaking and eventful interventions

Alternative Kinships Jacob Emery, 2017-05-15 According to Marx the family is the primal scene of the division of labor and the germ of every exploitative practice In this insightful study Jacob Emery examines the Soviet Union's programmatic effort to institute a global siblinghood of the proletariat revealing how alternative kinships motivate different economic relations and make possible other artistic forms A time in which literary fiction was continuous with the social fictions that organize the social economy the early Soviet period magnifies the interaction between the literary imagination and the reproduction of labor onto a historical scale Narratives dating back to the ancient world feature scenes in which a child looks into a mirror and sees someone else reflected there typically a parent In such scenes two definitions of the aesthetic coincide art as a fantastic space that shows an alternate reality and art as a mirror that reflects the world as it is In early Soviet literature mirror scenes illuminate the intersection of imagination and economy yielding new relations destined to replace biological kinship relations based in food language or spirit These metaphorical kinships have explanatory force far beyond their context providing a vantage point onto for example the Gothic literature of the early United States and the science fiction discourses of the postwar period Alternative Kinships will appeal to scholars of Russian literature comparative literature and literary theory as well as those interested in reconciling formalist and materialist approaches to culture

Organising Poetry

David Fairer, 2009-06-11 In this revisionary study of the poetry of Coleridge Wordsworth and their friends during the revolutionary decade David Fairer questions the accepted literary history of the period and the critical vocabulary we use to discuss it The book examines why at a time of radical upheaval when continuities of all kinds personal political social and cultural were being challenged this group of poets explored themes of inheritance retrospect revisiting and recovery Organising Poetry charts their struggles to find meaning not through vision and symbol but from connection and dialogue By placing these poets in the context of an eighteenth century organic tradition Fairer moves the emphasis away from the language of idealist Romantic theory towards an empirical stress on how identities are developed and sustained through time Locke s concept of personal identity as a continued organisation partaking of one common life offered not only a model for a reformed British constitution but a way of thinking about the self art and friendship which these poets found valuable The key term therefore is not unity but integrity In this context of a need to sustain and organise diversity and give it meaning the book offers original readings of some well known poems of the 1790s including Wordsworth s Tintern Abbey and The Ruined Cottage and Coleridge s conversation poems The Eolian Harp This Lime Tree Bower and Frost at Midnight Organising Poetry represents an important contribution to current critical debates about the nature of poetic creativity during this period and the need to recognise its more communal and collaborative aspects Revenge of the Aesthetic Michael P.
