The author argues that there is a subcategory of narrative representations that provide moral knowledge regardless of their categorisation as fiction or non fiction and which therefore can be employed as a means of moral improvement McGregor applies this narrative ethics to the criminology of inhumanity including both crimes against humanity and terrorism Expanding on the methodology of narrative criminology he demonstrates that narrative representations can be employed to evaluate responsibility for inhumanity to understand the psychology of inhumanity and to undermine inhumanity and are thus a means to the end of opposing injustice He concludes that the cultivation of narrative sensibility is an important tool for both moral improvement and political justice
