Rocket Man David A. Clary,2004-08-11 Now in paperback the life and legacy of the much overlooked yet highly influential Robert Goddard the brilliant eccentric and controversial pioneer of the space age More famous in his day than Einstein or Edison the troubled solitary genius Robert H Goddard was the American father of rocketry and space flight launching the world s first liquid fuel rockets and the first powered vehicles to break the sound barrier Supported by Charles Lindbergh and Harry Guggenheim he devised the methods that carried men to the moon Today no rocket or jet plane can fly without his inventions Yet Goddard is the forgotten man of the Space Age After the Germans launched the V 2 missiles of World War II the American government usurped his 214 patents and suppressed his contributions in the name of national security until it was forced to pay one million dollars for patent infringement Goddard became famous again monuments and medals raining upon his memory But his renewed fame soon faded and Goddard s pivotal role in launching the Space Age has been largely forgotten until now Robert H. Hunley, 2013-03-15 In this definitive study J D Hunley traces the program's development from Goddard's early rockets and the German V 2 missile through the Titan IVA and the Space Shuttle with a focus on space launch vehicles Since these rockets often evolved from early missiles he pays considerable attention to missile technology not as an end in itself but as a contributor to launch vehicle technology Focusing especially on the engineering culture of the program Hunley communicates this very human side of technological development by means of anecdotes character sketches and case studies of problems faced by rocket engineers He shows how such a highly adaptive approach enabled the evolution of a hugely complicated technology that was impressive but decidedly not rocket science Unique in its single volume coverage of the evolution of launch vehicle technology from 1926 to 1991 this meticulously researched work will inform scholars and engineers interested in the history of technology and innovation as well as those specializing in the history of space flight Excel HSC Physics Neville G. MacDonald, 2017-04-25 An economic historian traces uncovers the story of privately funded space exploration from early 19th century astronomical observatories to SpaceX The standard historical narrative of American space exploration begins during the Cold War with the federal government's efforts to beat the Soviet Union in the Space Race Given this framing the more recent emergence of private sector space exploration appears to be a new and controversial phenomenon But as Alexander MacDonald argues in The Long Space Age privately funded space exploration had been happening in the United States long before we tried to put a man on the moon Since the early 19th century private observatories had been making discoveries and developing technologies that led directly to NASA's epochal 20th century achievements And their efforts were no less ambitious for their time than SpaceX and Blue Origin are in today's resurgent space industry The Long Space Age examines the economic history of this centuries long development from those first American observatories to the International Space Station
