

Robert Capa 1913 1954

Dean A. Stahl, Karen Landen

Robert Capa 1913 1954:

Robert Capa, 1913-1954 Robert Capa, 1974 Robert Capa Photographs is the first true retrospective book of one of the century's greatest photographers. Drawing upon hundreds of previously unseen images, this collection reveals Capa as one of the great poets of the camera. In these photographs we see through the eyes of a driven humanist who was also a documentarian of the highest caliber. While previous volumes on Capa have focused on his role as a war photographer, Robert Capa Photographs shows us the remarkable range of his work, which encompasses the sufferings as well as the tenderness, humor, and wonder of his subjects. Robert Capa demonstrated not only a passionate commitment to improving the human condition but also an unfailing eye for graphic impact. Although his photographs remain the definitive visual records of such momentous events as the siege of Madrid, the bombing of Hankou, and the Allied landings on D Day, many of his images have a timeless and universal quality that transcends the specifics of history. A Spanish soldier recoils at the impact of a bullet; the final instant of his life. In a scene of perfect joy, a group of Chinese children laugh at the sky as snow begins to fall. Four farm workers hauling all the belongings they can manage trudge grimly away from an apocalyptic backdrop of smoke and ruins, their war-devastated homes. Capa's images reveal his profound compassion and perceptiveness about our tenuous human state. As Cornell Capa, Robert's younger brother and the Founding Director Emeritus of the International Center of Photography, writes in his eloquent remembrance: "He managed to travel all over the world and to communicate his experience and feelings through a universal language: photography." Robert Capa Photographs also includes a foreword by Capa's close friend Henri Cartier-Bresson, as well as an informative historical essay by Capa biographer Richard Whelan. At last, here is the book that reveals Robert Capa in a new light. The extraordinary collection of images in Robert Capa Photographs brings us through the events of history to the very heart of humanity.

but to this day no one better embodies the photographer as cultural soldier and no one's work better encapsulates the violence and brutality of the twentieth century than Capa. This volume presents a rich selection of his work as a war photographer starting from the images that established his fame: his documentation of the horrors of the Spanish Civil War from 1936-1939 and the Chinese resistance to the Japanese invasion in 1938. It continues on to World War II including Capa's stunning photographs of the D-Day landing in Normandy where on June 6, 1944, he swam to shore alongside the second assault wave of American troops and on to the first Arab-Israeli conflict in 1948 before concluding with the First Indochina War in which Capa joined a French regiment and eventually lost his life. Today the wars of the twentieth century may have transformed from wounds into scars but Capa's images remain as devastating as ever describing the trauma of war through a civilian's eyes and reminding us that despite years of loss and destruction humanity manages to persist. Born Endre Friedmann in Hungary where he was nicknamed 'Capa Shark' at school, Robert Capa (1913-1954) adopted the name by which he is remembered in the early 1930s following his relocation from Berlin to Paris. His first published photograph was a portrait of Leon Trotsky giving a speech on 'The Meaning of the Russian Revolution' in Copenhagen in 1932. His most famous work was his record of D-Day at Omaha Beach. Capa was killed by a land mine during an assignment on the First Indochina War.

Photography and China Claire Roberts, 2013-06-01 With its lush and diverse landscapes, ancient ruins and stunning architecture, China is a photographer's dream. Exploring this visually rich and evocative country, Photography and China highlights Chinese photographers and subjects from the inception of photography to the present day. Drawing on works in museums and archival and private collections across China, the United States, Europe, and Australia, Claire Roberts locates images from commercial art and documentary photography within the broader context of Chinese history. She focuses on the images as well as the studios and individuals who created them, describing the long tradition of Chinese artistic culture into which photography was first absorbed and subsequently expanded. As she recounts the stories of practitioners from China and overseas who were agents in that process of change, she also examines the commercial, political, and artistic purposes for which they used photography. Featuring one hundred striking, little-known images, Photography and China will make a significant contribution to photography, Chinese art, and twentieth-century history.

The Ongoing Moment Geoff Dyer, 2009-11-11 Great photographs change the way we see the world. The Ongoing Moment changes the way we look at both. Focusing on the ways in which canonical figures like Alfred Stieglitz, Paul Strand, Walker Evans, André Kertész, Edward Weston, Dorothea Lange, Diane Arbus, and William Eggleston have photographed the same things—barber shops, benches, hands, roads, signs—award-winning writer Geoff Dyer seeks to identify their signature styles. In doing so, he constructs a narrative in which these photographers, many of whom never met, constantly encounter one another. The result is a kaleidoscopic work of extraordinary originality and insight.
