From publisher description: Fine Art and Perceptual Neuroscience Paul Hackett, 2014-01-10. Over the past decade the integration of psychology and fine art has sparked growing academic interest among researchers of these disciplines. The author, both a psychologist and artist, offers up a unique merger and perspective of these fields. Through the production of fine art, which is directly informed by neuroscientific and optical processes, this volume aims to fill a gap in the literature and understanding of the creation and perception of the grid image created as a work of art. The grid image is employed for reasons discussed in the text to illustrate more general processes associated with the integration of vision, visual distortion, and painting. Existing at the intersection of perceptual neuroscience, psychology, fine art, and art history, this volume concerns the act of painting and the process of looking. More specifically, the book examines vision and the effects of visual impairment and how these can be interpreted through painting within a theoretical framework of visual neuroscience.

Embracing the Beat of Term: An Psychological Symphony within Robert Ryman Works On Paper 19571964

In some sort of consumed by displays and the ceaseless chatter of instantaneous interaction, the melodic splendor and mental symphony created by the prepared term usually fade into the background, eclipsed by the relentless noise and distractions that permeate our lives. Nevertheless, nestled within the pages of Robert Ryman Works On Paper 19571964 a wonderful fictional value brimming with organic thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Constructed by a masterful musician of language, that fascinating masterpiece conducts viewers on a psychological trip, well unraveling the concealed songs and profound influence resonating within each cautiously constructed phrase. Within the depths with this moving evaluation, we shall investigate the book is central harmonies, analyze their enthralling writing fashion, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
