Health and Safety Needs of Older Workers
Institute of Medicine, National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Behavioral, Cognitive, and Sensory Sciences, Committee on the Health and Safety Needs of Older Workers, 2004-02-26
Mirroring a worldwide phenomenon in industrialized nations the U S is experiencing a change in its demographic structure known as population aging. Concern about the aging population tends to focus on the adequacy of Medicare and Social Security retirement of older Americans and the need to identify policies, programs and strategies that address the health and safety needs of older workers. Older workers differ from their younger counterparts in a variety of physical, psychological and social factors. Evaluating the extent, causes and effects of these factors and improving the research and data systems necessary to address the health and safety needs of older workers may significantly impact both their ability to remain in the workforce and their well being in retirement. Health and Safety Needs of Older Workers provides an image of what is currently known about the health and safety needs of older workers and the research needed to encourage social policies that guarantee older workers a meaningful share of the nation's work opportunities.
