Laxatives Francesco Capasso, Timothy S. Gaginella, 2012-12-06 Constipation is a common disorder that is often defined differently by patients and physicians Clinically constipation occurs when bowel movements are difficult or painful The normality of bowel movements in terms of frequency varies among individuals frequency that is thought by one person to be constipation may be reported by another to be usual and thus normal Often the perceived need to have a bowel movement leads to self treatment with laxatives as these drugs are widely available without a prescription This situation can raise problems in patient care because of potential interactions between laxatives and other medications Furthermore chronic use of laxatives can cause serious medical consequences causing patients to visit physicians and even to be hospitalized for further evaluation and care This has a financial impact on the patient and on health care systems It is essential that pharmacists physicians and other health care practitioners counsel patients on the causes of constipation and the proper use of laxatives A medical work up by a physician should be done to determine if the constipation is due to a pathological process Often normal bowel function for an individual can be maintained by diet and or lifestyle Most laxatives in use today are of botanical origin Further research on the mechanism of action of these and synthetic laxatives is needed to better define their pharmacology and toxicology
