Sentencing Process And Purpose:

Sentencing Gerhard O. W. Mueller, 1977 Sentencing in International Criminal Law Silvia D'Ascoli, 2011-04-01 This book deals with sentencing in international criminal law focusing on the approach of the UN ad hoc Tribunals for the former Yugoslavia ICTY and Rwanda ICTR In contrast to sentencing in domestic jurisdictions and in spite of its growing importance sentencing law is a part of international criminal law that is still under construction and is unregulated in many aspects International sentencing law and practice is not yet defined by exact norms and principles and as yet there is no body of international principles concerning the determination of sentence notwithstanding the huge volume of sentencing research and the extensive modern debate about sentencing principles Moreover international judges receive very little guidance in sentencing matters this contributes to inconsistencies and may increase the risk that similar cases will be sentenced in different ways One purpose of this book is to investigate and evaluate the process of international sentencing especially as interpreted by the ICTY and the ICTR and to suggest a more comprehensive and coherent system of guiding principles which will foster the development of a law of sentencing for international criminal justice The book discusses the law and jurisprudence of the ad hoc Tribunals and also presents an empirical analysis of influential factors and other data from ICTY and ICTR sentencing practice thus offering quantitative support for the doctrinal analysis This publication is one of the first to be entirely devoted to the process of sentencing in international criminal justice The book will thus be of great interest to practitioners academics and students of the subject Sentencing and Criminal Justice Andrew Ashworth, Rory Kelly, 2021-07-15 This revised and updated new edition focuses on major developments in sentencing law practice and theory Sentencing in England and Wales is now dominated by Sentencing Council guidelines and scrutiny of those guidelines is central to this book Issues of principle are identified and discussed to include the constitutional position of the Sentencing Council the meaning of and challenges to proportionality and the sentencing of BAME offenders and women offenders The book welcomes the new Sentencing Code introduced as the Sentencing Act 2020 and critically examines the government's plans for sentencing reform set out in the 2020 White Paper A Smarter Approach to Sentencing Throughout the book sentencing is explored in its wider criminal justice context making it essential reading for courses on sentencing criminal justice and criminal law Reform of the Federal Criminal Laws United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Criminal Laws and Procedures, 1977 How Judges Sentence Geraldine Mackenzie, 2005 How do judges sentence This question is frequently asked but infrequently explored What factors are taken into account How do judges see their role How do they apply the aims and purposes of sentencing How are factors such as public opinion taken into account How Judges Sentence explores these questions through interviews with Queensland judges The judges explain how they come to their decisions when sentencing how they view judicial discretion and how they exercise it The book carefully examines their comments within the legislative and theoretical contexts of sentencing The analysis yields valuable insights into judicial methodologies perceptions and attitudes towards the sentencing process How Judges Sentence provides a major contribution to debates on sentencing Congressional Record United States. Congress,1983 Justice in Motion Pasquale De Marco, Justice in Motion is a groundbreaking exploration of the American criminal justice system providing a comprehensive and engaging introduction to its complexities and challenges This book takes a multifaceted approach examining the roles of law enforcement the courts and corrections while also delving into the impact of social and cultural factors on criminal justice outcomes With a focus on accessibility and clarity Justice in Motion explains the overarching processes and purposes of the criminal justice system It traces the historical evolution of the system shedding light on the underlying principles that guide its operation and the dynamic relationships between its components The book confronts the challenges faced by the criminal justice system head on addressing issues such as mass incarceration racial disparities and the need for sentencing reforms It delves into the complexities of policing the intricacies of the court system and the realities of corrections offering a nuanced understanding of each component Justice in Motion recognizes the importance of public safety while also advocating for a balanced approach that prioritizes justice equity and rehabilitation It explores innovative approaches to crime prevention and rehabilitation emphasizing the role of community engagement and restorative justice practices This book is an essential resource for anyone seeking a deeper understanding of the criminal justice system its challenges and its potential for positive transformation It is a call to action for a more just and equitable system that promotes safety accountability and healing for all Justice in Motion is written in an engaging and accessible style making it suitable for a wide range of readers It is an invaluable resource for students practitioners and anyone interested in the criminal justice system and its impact on society The Practice of Punishment Wesley Cragg,2003-09-02 Cragg combines the findings of contemporary studies reports and papers focusing on crime punishment and penal practice with philosophical argument and thereby constructs a radical theory of restorative justice Corrections United States. National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals,1973 The Commission recommends specific standards in pursuit of the achievement of six major goals for the improvement of the American correctional system The American correctional system today appears to offer minimum protection for the public and maximum harm to the offender The National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals in its report on corrections has proposed about 140 standards designed to change that situation The standards spell out in detail where why how and what improvements can and should be made in the corrections segment of the criminal justice system This report is a reference work for the correctional professional as well as for the interested layman Among its goals the commission urges that disparities in sentencing be removed and justice in corrections be upheld by measures guaranteeing offenders rights during and after incarceration The scope of corrections can and should be narrowed by diverting many juveniles and sociomedical cases alcoholics drug addicts prostitutes and the mentally disturbed to noncorrectional treatment programs and by decriminalizing certain minor offenses such as public drunkenness and vagrancy Another goal states that probation should become the standard criminal sentence retaining confinement chiefly for dangerous offenders and releasing a majority of offenders to improved and extended community based programs Corrections should undergo a planned integration into the total criminal justice system with each state unifying all correctional functions and programs for adults and juveniles within its executive branch

Prosecuting International Crimes in Africa Chacha Murungu, Japhet Biegon, 2011 Prosecuting international crimes in Africa contributes to the understanding of international criminal justice in Africa The book argues for the rule of law respect for human rights and the eradication of a culture of impunity in Africa it is a product of peer reviewed contributions from graduates of the Centre for Human Rights Faculty of Law University of Pretoria where the Master's degree programme in Human Rights and Democratisation in Africa has been presented since 2000 Back cover

Punishment and Process in International Criminal Trials Ralph Henham, 2017-03-02 International sentencing has become significant given the numerous events on the world stage which have focused attention on the justifications and adequacy of punishment for heinous crimes such as genocide and crimes against humanity In addition to providing a detailed evaluation of the philosophical and theoretical difficulties raised by this rapidly developing area of international criminal justice this book provides an integrated socio legal analysis of the law and process of international sentencing It considers the rationale and development of international sentencing structures and processes the nature and scope of legal and procedural constraints on decision making as well as access to justice and rights issues The book discusses sentencing within the context of international criminal law and examines internationalized trial processes and alternative mechanisms for resolution In seeking to comprehend the punishment of international crimes through the comparative contextual analysis of trial processes it challenges our present understanding of how and why particular sentencing outcomes are produced and the perceived legitimacy of international trial justice

The Right to Be Punished Gabriel Hallevy, 2012-10-12 Does an offender have the right to be punished The right to be punished may sound like an oxymoron but it is not necessarily so With the emergence of modern criminal law the offender gained the right to be punished by rational criminal law rather than being lynched by an angry mob The present day offender may have the right to be punished by doctrinal sentencing rather than being subjected to verdicts based on vague unclear and uncertain principles In modern criminal law the imposition of criminal liability follows accurate and strict rules whereas there are no similar rules for the imposition of punishment The process of sentencing is vague and obscure as are the considerations used for the imposition of punishments The objective of the present book is to propose a comprehensive general and legally sophisticated theory of modern doctrinal sentencing The challenges of such a legal theory are plenty and complex In addition to increasing clarity and certainty modern doctrinal sentencing must deal with modern types of delinquency e g organized crime recidivism corporate offenders high tech offenses etc and modern principles of criminal law Modern doctrinal sentencing must serve to ensure optimal sentencing
