Memory and the Wars on Terror Jessica Gildersleeve, Richard Gehrmann, 2017-10-24 This edited collection aims to respond to dominant perspectives on twenty first century war by exploring how the events of 9 11 and the subsequent Wars on Terror are represented and remembered outside of the US framework Existing critical coverage ignores the meaning of these events for people nations and cultures apparently peripheral to them but which have as shown in this collection been extraordinarily affected by the social political and cultural changes these wars have wrought Adopting a literary and cultural history approach the book asks how these events resonate and continue to show effects in the rest of the world with a particular focus on Australia and Britain It argues that such reflections on the impact of the Wars on Terror help us to understand what global conflict means in a contemporary context as well as what its representative motifs might tell us about how nations like Australia and Britain perceive and construct their remembered identities on the world stage in the twenty first century In its close examination of films novels memoir visual artworks media and minority communities in the years since 2001 this collection looks at the global impacts of these events and the ways they have shaped and continue to shape Britain and Australia s relation to the rest of the world
