

A painting depicting a scene from a war, likely World War I, showing soldiers in a trench. The soldiers are wearing green uniforms and helmets, and some are holding rifles. The scene is filled with smoke and dust, creating a hazy, somber atmosphere. The title 'THE LONGEST WAR' is overlaid in a large, white, serif font, centered across the middle of the image.

Omar Al-Bashir and Africa's Longest War Paul L. Moorcraft, 2015-04-30 President Omar al Bashir is Africa's and arguably Arabia's most controversial leader In power since 1989 he is the first sitting head of state to be issued with an arrest warrant for war crimes by International Criminal Court He has been a central personality in Islamic and African politics as well as a love to hate figure for the US in the war on terror For military history readers Al Bashir is a field marshal who has fought possibly the world's longest conflict Modern Sudan has been embroiled in war since 1955 No proper biography has been written on him before Nor has there been a comprehensive military history of Sudan The book briefly covers the military background until independence Then it dissects the long north south civil war until Bashir's Islamist military coup in 1989 Thereafter it narrates the wars in the east south west in Darfur International political and military intervention is also factored in The author draws on in depth one on one interviews with Bashir himself and his family and close political military and intelligence colleagues

British Generals in Blair's Wars Jonathan Bailey, Richard Iron, 2016-04-15 British Generals in Blair's Wars is based on a series of high profile seminars held in Oxford in which senior British officers predominantly from the army reflect on their experience of campaigning The chapters embrace all the UK's major operations since the end of the Cold War but they focus particularly on Iraq and Afghanistan As personal testimonies they capture the immediacy of the authors' thoughts at the time and show how the ideas of a generation of senior British officers developed in a period of rapid change against a background of intense political controversy and some popular unease. The armed forces were struggling to revise their Cold War concepts and doctrines and to find the best ways to meet the demands placed upon them by their political leaders in what was seen to be a New World Order. It was a time when relations between the Government of the day and the armed services came under close scrutiny and when the affection of the British public for its forces seemed to grow with the difficulty of their operational tasks. This is a truly unique and invaluable book. For the first time we are offered first hand testimony about Britain's involvement in recent campaigns by senior participants. In addition to touching on themes like civilian military relations, the operational direction of war and relationships with allies, these eyewitness accounts give a real sense of how the character of a war changes even as it is being fought. It will be essential reading for those in military academies and staff colleges not only in Britain but throughout NATO and especially in the USA. It also has profound policy implications as both the UK and NATO more generally reassess their strategies and the value of intervention operations. It will also become a primary source for historians and students of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan in particular.

National Resilience during War Eyal Lewin, 2012-08-20. In political science, war is generally considered the most traumatic event a nation faces, often posing threats to a nation's very existence. The challenge of surviving the war may therefore prove central to the life of a nation. However, national resilience during war has not yet been fully investigated. National Resilience during War: Refining the Decision Making Model by Eyal Lewin searches for the mechanisms of national resilience through a deep inquiry into nine different case studies taken from the scenery of World War II. Following a multi-disciplinary attitude, a business management model is adopted; the PEST and SWOT model and political, economic, social and military technological factors are analyzed for each of the case studies. The result is a comprehensive political decision making model on a national level that can serve as a means for leaders to navigate successfully in geopolitical turbulence as well as for social scientists to better understand the defeats that different countries suffer and the victories that others demonstrate. This research, however, goes further by refining the model and pointing to the exact combination of factors that are crucial for a nation's ability to win its wars. Using a qualitative comparative analysis technique, the exact combination is traced. The results emphasize that the winning scheme blends political and social factors together; leadership, positive psychology and an inspiring national ethos prove to be a necessary though not a sufficient conditional combination for success. National Resilience during War fills a significant gap in the literature on the politics of war.
