Governance in the New South Africa Guy C. Z. Mhone, Omano Edigheji, 2003 The major challenges confronting South Africa since the advent of non racial multiparty democracy have been the need to promote democratic governance economic growth global competitiveness and to improve the standard of living of its people especially the previously disadvantaged majority Black population These challenges have coincided with the ascendancy of globalisation with its attendant social economic and political imperatives all of which have consequences for governance and development at the national level not least in emerging economies like South Africa This important book assesses the implications of global imperatives for the nature capacity character and scope of democratic governance and the pursuit of equitable development in the new South Africa A major conclusion is that the implementation of domestic economic reforms predicated on market fundamentalism with its dominant logic and paradigm of globalisation and economic management is incompatible and irreconcilable with the quest for democratic governance and equitable development The contributors contend that such an approach reproduces a substantively undemocratic and inequitable society Governance in the New

South Africa concludes by offering some considerations related to how substantive democracy and equitable development may be promoted in South Africa on the basis of democratic governance and developmentalism
