Conservation Library, 1974 People and Environment Gareth Jones, 2014-06-11 People and Physical Environment A Global Approach provides an introduction to the main areas of environmental concern for geographers environmental scientists and planners at the beginning of the twenty first century These include Pollution of the atmosphere and its impact on our climate The exploitation of the oceans Management and supply of fresh water Degradation of the land and Biodiversity and the need to maintain genetic diversity The book argues that our knowledge and understanding of the environment is now so great that we can predict with considerable accuracy where the skills of science and technology need to be focussed in order to prevent severe environmental damage from occurring Achieving successful management of the environment has become dependent upon active participation of a society prepared to pay for a high quality of life and the willingness of our elected politicians to legislate and enforce the very highest standards of environmental management This book will be essential reading for students of geography environmental studies science and land use planners and will also contribute valuable information for climatology biogeography hydrology land economy and forestry students

Forces of Nature Barry A. Vann, 2012-03-20 As long as the human species has existed men and women have had to contend with the unpredictable forces of nature Geographer Barry A Vann brings a unique perspective to this age old struggle in this illuminating overview of human population shifts and their precarious relationship with climate change and geography Vann takes us on a journey along the migration routes of the earliest modern humans and tells why our ancestors chose to settle down in places that can be best described as natural utopias In the religiously oriented worldview of ancient peoples such places took on a sacred aura of divine favor Similarly destructive events such as volcanic eruptions and earthquakes were interpreted as expressions of divine wrath Vann shows how the ancient texts of the Bible and the Qur'an offer glimpses of past climates that were distinctly different from the climate of our time He also discusses the rise of technology as a means of controlling the threatening features of the natural world Though technology has enabled humanity to cope with hostile climates it has also created a false sense of security Vann notes that population clusters are increasing in dangerous areas and that no technology can protect vulnerable groups from major category hurricanes tornadoes or earthquakes Finally he considers our current anxieties regarding global warming pointing out that this focus has obscured a good deal of historical and geological evidence for a return of another ice age The Forces of Nature offers a challenging perspective on the precarious balance between fragile human communities and their often threatening environments The Human Impact on the Natural Environment Andrew S. Goudie, 2013-04-25 The new edition of this classic student text provides an up to date and comprehensive view of the major environmental issues facing the world today and is an essential introduction to the past present and future impact of humans on Earth Explores the impact of humans upon vegetation animals soils water landforms and the atmosphere Updated extensively with many new figures and up to date statistics Four completely new chapters explore the ways in which global climate change may have an impact on Earth in the future A new design makes the text even more accessible and easy to use Visit www.blackwellpublishing.com/humanimpact to access the artwork from the book

Environmental Protection Agency. Library Systems Branch, 1974 The Human Impact on the Natural Environment Andrew Goudie, 2013-06-10 The seventh edition of this classic student text explores the multitude of impacts that humans have had over time upon vegetation animals soils water landforms and the atmosphere It also looks into the future and considers the ways in which climate changes and modifications in land cover may change the environment in coming decades Extensively re-written it contains many new statistical tables figures and references It is essential reading for undergraduates in geography and environmental science and for those who want a thorough wide ranging and balanced overview of the impacts of humans upon natural processes and systems from the Stone Age to the Anthropocene and who wish to understand the major environmental issues that concern the human race at the present time Additional resources for this book can be found at <http://www.wiley.com/go/goudiehumanimpact> The Earth as Transformed by Human Action B. L. Turner, William C. Clark, Robert W. Kates, John F. Richards, Jessica T. Mathews, William B. Meyer, 1993-01-29 The Earth as Transformed by Human Action is the culmination of a mammoth undertaking involving the examination of the toll our continual strides forward technical and social take on our world The purpose of such a study is to document the changes in the biosphere that have taken place over the last 300 years to contrast global patterns of change to those appearing on a regional level and to explain the major human forces that have driven these changes The first section deals strictly with the major human forces of the past 300 years and the second is a detailed account of the transformations of the global environment wrought by human action The final section examines a range of perspectives and theories that purport to explain human actions with regard to the biosphere

Ecological Systems and the Environment Theodore C. Foin, 1976

Africa, the Devastated Continent? A. de Vos, 2012-12-06 Africa is not known as one of the more densely populated continents Yet the damaging marks of man's activities may be seen there dramatically Many of Africa's ecological zones are fragile Large scale soil erosion resultant cycles of drought and flash floods downgrading of fauna and flora are well known to many in general ways as well as from detailed examination of a few areas But large parts of Africa remain inaccessible Very few students of Africa have the opportunity or the tenacity to travel over these vast areas or into the hidden corners that lie beyond the well known routes of Africa As FAO's Regional Wildlife and National Parks Officer for Africa ANTON DE Vos had the opportunity of travelling widely and studying and reporting on the acceleration of man made changes in much of the continent As an experienced practitioner of an important and difficult science ecology he has made a significant professional contribution with this book It is our hope that those who read it will be encouraged to carry on the important work and the concern with this subject to which Dr DE Vos has devoted so much of his knowledge energy and personal commitments

Global Environmental Issues David Kemp, 2002-09-26 This book provides a balanced account of the global environmental issues which threaten our society and which we neglect at our peril Analysing both social and environmental components of the issues global warming ozone depletion acid rain and drought the book offers a valuable integrative approach and a detailed analysis of environmental issues in a clear non technical manner Emphasising the climatological dimension common to all environmental issues Global Environmental Issues recognises the multi faceted nature of the issues their common causes and the possibility of common solutions Assessment of socio economic cultural and political factors provides a balanced introduction to both the dangers and advantages of human interference with the environment What have we done to deserve our current environmental crisis Can we solve our current environmental problems or is it too late This new edition of a best selling text is completely updated and expands to include greater detail and new material such as a new section on atmospheric modelling A glossary has been added together with a bibliography for further reading at the end of each chapter allowing readers to develop their interest in specific areas The interdisciplinary text will prove invaluable to students in geography environmental studies and other courses in which the environmental approach is emphasised

Exploring Environmental Issues David D. Kemp, 2004 Global warming ozone depletion drought acid rain their causes are viewed as extraordinarily complex their effects are assumed catastrophic Exploring Environmental Issues provides a key to understanding our potential crisis The concise introductory text presents a review of current environmental issues using a geographical approach that stresses the interrelationships between environment and societies This user friendly volume is an essential book for students and all who are concerned with the nature of contemporary environmental issues Information is presented in a refreshing manner utilising over 170 figures and 50 photographs Global boxed case studies are used throughout to highlight and explore issues in more detail The text also contains discussion points annotated further reading and an extensive glossary The Terrestrial Biosphere S.T.

Trudgill,2014-09-25 Terrestrial Biosphere tries to pose the questions which underlie the many sided debate of how to respond to and influence change How should we view nature What do we do for the best how should we act what are we trying to achieve and what should we be guided by In doing so the book introduces and attempts to analyse not only scientific aspects of the debate but also cultural attitudes and values the notions of ecosystem stability are now challenged and it is also clear that ecosystems are renewable but not repeatable It finds that prescriptive solutions based on current constructs may not be adequate Feeling that analysis should lead to advocacy the author believes that if we can't improve predictability we have to increase adaptability which means that ecological and social capacity building should be advocated This is seen in terms of concepts institutions attitudes and values which allow for a plurality of meanings and which can cope with surprise and unforeseen change and which also facilitates responses to change The Conservation of Ecosystems and Species

Gareth E. Jones,2019-12-06 Originally published in 1987 Conservation of Ecosystems and Species examines conservation as a major world issue for governments industrialists and the general public The need for conservation has become more urgent as human activity continues to encroach upon the remaining natural ecosystems of our planet This book examines a wide range of conservation issues and explains the scientific reasons why conservation of ecosystems and species is important not merely for its own sake but for the future of humanity It charts the development of conservation policy around the concept and understanding of the ecosystem The roles of the planner the industrialist and the politician in the development of a conservation policy are described Water Resources in the Arid Realm Clive Agnew,Ewan Anderson,2024-04-03 Originally published in 1992 this book dispels some of the myths that surround water resource problems of arid lands and the notion that there are simple once and for all solutions Population growth industrialization environmental mismanagement and land degradation have led to droughts poverty and famine with the result that the need for space food and key natural resources such as water has become the most critical issue in global development Nowhere is this crisis more apparent than in arid lands where water resources provide the key to economic and environmental development The authors argue that as the arid land environment is highly variable the key to success is flexibility The book is divided into four sections dealing with the geography of the arid realm the water resource problems they face the methods available for enhancing water supplies and finally management of this resource The book will be of use to undergraduate and postgraduate student and for those actively engaged in the development of arid land water resources Human Activity and Environmental Processes K. J.

Gregory,Des E. Walling,1987-05-06 This new edition of the acclaimed Man and Environmental Processes comprised of chapters contributed by internationally respected researchers reviews the effect of human activity on the entire range of environmental processes Provides extensive up to date coverage of human influence upon processes in the hydrosphere atmosphere biosphere and geosphere and how it relates to questions of management Material from the first edition has been substantially updated and revised and four new chapters have been added which provide introductory coverage of the theme of human activity and environmental processes in oceans and lakes and African vegetation and desertification
