Marine Geology Of The Pacific:

Marine Geology of the Pacific Henry William Menard, 1964 Marine Geology and Oceanography of the Pacific
Manganese Nodule Province James L. Bischoff, David Z. Piper, 2013-03-08 Deep sea manganese nodules once an obscure scientific curiosity have in the brief span of two decades become a potential mineral resource of major importance. Nodules that cover the sea floor of the tropical North Pacific may represent a vast ore deposit of manganese, nickel, cobalt, and copper. Modern technology has apparently surmounted the incredible problem of recovering nodules in water depths of 5000 meters and the extraction of metals from the complex chemical nodule matrix is a reality. Both the recovery and the extraction appear to be economically feasible. Exploitation of this resource is however hindered more by the lack of an international legal structure allowing for recognition of mining sites and exploitation rights than by any other factor. Often when a mineral deposit becomes identified as an exploitable resource, scientific study burgeons. Interest in the nature and genesis of the deposit increases and much is learned from large scale exploration. The case is self evident for petroleum and ore deposits on land. The study of manganese nodules is just now entering this phase. What was the esoteric field of a few scientists has become the subject of active exploration and research by most of the industrialized nations. Unfortunately for our general understanding of manganese nodules, exploration results remain largely proprietary. However, scientific study has greatly increased and the results are becoming widely available. Marine Geology and Oceanography of the Pacific Manganese Nodule Province, 1979 Geology and Offshore Mineral Resources of the Central Pacific Basin Barbara H. Keating, Barrie R. Bolton, 2012-12-06 The Earth Science Series of the Circum Pacific Funding for ship time was made available through Council for Energy and Mineral Resources (CPEMR), the U.S. Agency for International Development. It is designed to convey the results of geologic research in USGS, the U.S. Office of Naval Research, RIGs and around the Pacific Basin. Topics of interest include 1982 work, the Australian Development Assistance framework, geology, petroleum geology, hard minerals, Bureau of the Australian Bureau of Mineral Resources, geothermal energy, environmental geology, volcanology, BMR, the New Zealand Ministry of Foreign Affairs, oceanography, tectonics, geophysics, geochemistry, and the New Zealand Department of Scientific and Industrial applications of renewable energy. The CPEMR supports Research, DSIR, the New Zealand Geological Survey, ports and publishes results of scientific research that will and the New Zealand Oceanographic Institute (NZOI). Coordination of the program was provided by the U.S. to advance the knowledge of energy and mineral resource potential in the circum Pacific region. The Earth Sci. Department of State and the South Pacific Applied Geoscience Series is specifically designed to publish papers that science Commission SOPAC formerly the United Nations include new data and new maps, report on CPEMR Nations sponsored Committee for the Coordination of sponsored symposia and workshops and describe the Joint Prospecting for Mineral Resources in South Pacific results of onshore and marine geological and geophysical Offshore Areas (CCOP) SOPAC in Fiji.
