Marketing For Congregations:

Church Marketing 101 Richard L. Reising, 2006-01-01 Over 90 percent of all Christian churches in the United States have fewer than 200 members While they vary in shape size ethnicity and denomination they have one thing in common the desire to grow So why is it that some churches fail to grow for years while other congregations in the same community increase exponentially The problem says church marketing authority Richard Reising is that most churches should not be doing promotion Instead they should focus on the preparation that will make members eager to invite others In ChurchMarketing 101 he demystifies basic marketing principles for the church evaluates them against biblical principles and illustrates how simple changes can remove roadblocks that hinder members from reaching out Reising s simple yet insightful approach will be invaluable to pastors and ministry leaders from churches of all denominations and styles Marketing for Congregations biblical Although the word marketing never appears in the Bible the Bible is filled with examples of successful marketers Solomon Joshua Nehemiah and Paul to name just a few As you ll see in this book these dynamic men of God had the ability to identify people s needs and then find the best ways to meet them Jesus told his followers to do the same to bring his message to people in a way they could understand and relate to That s the heart of marketing And those principles can be immensely useful as you take part in God s work here on earth It s time to move beyond the question of whether or not marketing is a biblical practice The real question is whether your church can afford not to use such a powerful and readily available tool and their leaders are experiencing unprecedented anxiety. Despite the many organizational and growth strategies offered to congregational leaders over the last five decades, few congregations are growing and most are coping with numerical decline. With fewer people attending worship and fewer students offering themselves for ordination at least in mainline denominations, many Christians worry that the church across the continent is in the process of dying. While Ervine's book may not offer swift solutions, it does offer hope. Fearful congregations and their leaders are invited to set the search for quick fix solutions aside and instead take the time to discover and then respect the identity, purpose, and ministry priorities that the New Testament provides to congregations. This book is written in the conviction that clarity about their in Christ identity, their purpose in God's ongoing mission, and what is essential to their ministry will give congregations new confidence to offer Christian witness rooted in biblical teaching while respecting twenty-first century cultural realities.
