

A dirt path leads through a field of tall grass and a fence, with a sunset sky in the background. The path is in the foreground, leading towards the horizon. The fence is made of wooden posts and wire, and the grass is tall and green. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and blue, with some clouds.

I read myself out of poverty,

Reading Poverty:

Reading Poverty in America Patrick Shannon, 2014-03-14 In this book Shannon's major premise remains the same as his 1998 Reading Poverty. Poverty has everything to do with American public schooling: how it is theorized, how it is organized, and how it runs. Competing ideological representations of poverty underlie school assumptions about intelligence, character, textbook content, lesson formats, national standards, standardized achievement tests, and business school partnerships, and frame our considerations of each. In this new edition, Shannon provides an update of the ideological struggles to name and respond to poverty through the design, content, and pedagogy of reading education, showing how through their representations and framing, advocates of liberal, conservative, and neoliberal interpretations attempt the ideological practice of teaching the public who they are, what they should know, and what they should value about equality, civic society, and reading. For those who decline these offers, Shannon presents radical democratic interpretations of the relationship between poverty and reading education that position the poor, the public, students, and teachers as agents in the redistribution of economic, cultural, and political capital in the United States.

Reading Is Our Business Sharon Grimes, 2006-02-06 Discusses current research on how children learn to read and outlines a seven-step teaching strategy for enhancing all aspects of reading comprehension.

Putting Social Justice and Equity at the Heart of Reading for Pleasure Jane Carter, 2025-03-31 This essential book discusses what reading for pleasure is and what it is not, introducing some fundamental ideas about how we learn to read and how this process can impact a child's identity as a reader in classrooms that promote equality, inclusion, and diversity. The profile and importance of Reading for Pleasure has grown significantly over the last few years and is now firmly embedded in both government policy and the Ofsted framework. Developing a Reading for Pleasure school that is truly inclusive of the whole school community, however, can require a culture shift in relation to the teaching of reading, representation in the reading environment, and the knowledge and attitudes of the school community. This book seeks to use the current research, teacher case studies, and the voices of children to address some of the issues that teachers and pre-service teachers encounter when trying to develop an inclusive Reading for Pleasure culture within their schools. Each chapter is co-authored by teachers and researchers and includes case studies and children's perspectives. It provides practical and evidence-based advice, lesson ideas, and creative ideas to both support and challenge all school leaders, staff, and student teachers in their journey to create readers rather than children that can just read.

Expanding Reading Comprehension in Grades 3-6 Katherine A. Dougherty Stahl, Georgia Earnest García, 2022-03-29 Students in grades 3-6 need to use increasingly sophisticated comprehension skills and strategies as they read and build knowledge across disciplinary content areas. Grounded in research, this book presents effective practices for integrating literacy instruction with literature, science, and social studies. Chapters address text selection, vocabulary development, strategy instruction, discussion formats, writing to express, and expand comprehension, assessment, and more. Ways to meet the needs of emergent bilingual and culturally diverse students are highlighted throughout Ideal for preservice and inservice teachers and professional staff development the book includes classroom vignettes text boxes with easy to read instructional procedures and curriculum resources Helpful reproducible forms can be downloaded and printed in a convenient 8 1 2 x 11 size See also the authors related book on the primary grades Developing Reading Comprehension Effective Instruction for All Students in PreK 2

The Achievement Gap in Reading Rosalind Horowitz,S. Jay Samuels,2017-04-07 In this volume prominent scholars experts in their respective fields and highly skilled in the research they conduct address educational and reading research from varied perspectives and address what it will take to close the achievement gap with specific attention to reading The achievement gap is redefined as a level at which all groups can compete economically in our society and have the literacy tools and habits needed for a good life Bringing valuable theoretical frameworks and in depth analytical approaches to interpretation of data the contributors examine factors that contribute to student achievement inside the school but which are also heavily influenced by out of school factors such as poverty and economics ethnicity and culture family and community stratifications and approaches to measurement of achievement These out of school factors present possibilities for new policies and practice The overarching theme is that achievement gaps in reading are complex and that multiple perspectives are necessary to address the problem The breadth and depth of perspectives and content in this volume and its conceptualization of the achievement gap are a significant contribution to the field

Poverty and Literacy Nathalis Wamba,2014-07-16 There is a mutual dependence between poverty and academic achievement creative pedagogies for low income pupils school models that beat the odds and the resiliency of low income families dedicated to the academic success of their children This book examines the connection between poverty and literacy looking at the potential roles and responsibilities of teachers school administrators researchers and policymakers in closing the achievement gap and in reducing the effects of poverty on the literacy skill development of low income children There are numerous suggestions about how to improve schools so that they respond to the needs of low income children some argue for school reform while others advocate social reform and yet others suggest combining both educational reform and social reform Without a strong foundation in literacy children are all too often denied access to a rich and diverse curriculum Reading and writing are passports to achievement in many other curricular areas and literacy education plays an important role in moving people out of poverty toward greater self sufficiency post graduation Schools and home environments share responsibility for literacy skill development in school literacy equals the acquisition of reading and writing skills but it is also a social practice key to social mobility The achievement gap between low income middle class and upper middle class students illustrates the power of socioeconomic factors outside school This book was originally published as two special issues of Reading Writing Quarterly Overcoming Learning Difficulties
