Readers and Reading Andrew Bennett, 2014-07-15 Much literary criticism focuses on literary producers and their products but an important part of such work considers the end user the reader It asks such questions as how far can the author condition the response of the reader and how much does the reader create the meaning of a text Dr Bennett's collection includes important essays from such writers and critics as Wolfgang Iser Mary Jacobus Roger Chartier Michel de Certeau Shoshana Felman Maurice Blanchot Paul de Man and Yves Bonnefoy It looks in turn at deconstructionist feminist new historicist and psychoanalytical response to the school The book then considers the act of reading itself discussing such issues as the uniqueness of any reading and the difficulties involved in its analysis      Reading in Proust's A la recherche Adam Watt, 2009-06-18 Through close textual analysis of the scenes of reading in Proust's A la recherche du temps perdu Adam Watt offers an invigorating new study of the novel and previously unacknowledged paths through it After considering key childhood Primal Scenes which mark the act of reading as revelatory and potentially traumatic the book then identifies and examines the interwoven strands of the novel's narrative of reading showing that scenes where the narrator reads and where others provide lessons in reading are intricately connected within the narrator's ever unfolding considerations of intelligence sense experience knowledge and desire These acts of reading often bewildering the narrator with their mix of illuminations wrong turns and over determinations lead us to interrogate our own understanding of the act we accomplish as we read A la recherche This book emphasizes the complexities and contradictions with which reading always inescapably an engagement of both mind and body is riven and which connect it repeatedly to the experience of involuntary memory Reading is shown to be frequently fraught with heady instability and of a highly revealing sort from which narrator and readers alike have much to learn The book's final chapter shows how the narrator's critical energies turned contemplatively inwards in the Guermantes library are subsequently turned outwards for a final interpretive effort the reading of his now aged acquaintances at the Bal de t tes in a shift that provides the narrator not only the confidence to begin his work of art

Words Alison Booth,1993 Famous Last Words traces a broad historical transition from the 1840s to the 1980s from the more rigid dichotomy of the Victorian novel in which good women must marry and fallen women die to the more open alternatives of twentieth century fiction which sometimes permit the independent female protagonist to survive and occasionally allow alternative constructions of gender as well as plot Each essay treats a narrative novel novella or novel poem by a single author in light of conventions of closure and of gender in historical context The contributors recover forgotten texts revise our understanding of women writers once successful but now somewhat marginalized and give voice to cultural others Works by the already canonized George Eliot are reassessed and the representation of women in the canonical novels of male writers William Thackeray and Henry James is explored      A Study Guide for Charlotte Perkins Gilman's "Yellow

Mapping a Tradition Sam Haigh, 2000 In recent years critical interest in francophone literature has become increasingly pronounced In the case of the French Caribbean the work of several writers Aime Cesaire Frantz Fanon Edouard Glissant and Patrick Chamoiseau for example has gained international recognition and has formed a vital part of more general debates on history culture language and identity in the post colonial world The majority of such writers however have been male and perhaps recalling the preference that France has always shown for the island have come in large part from Martinique Mapping a Tradition Francophone Women's Writing from Guadeloupe aims to explore a different side of francophone Caribbean writing through the examination of selected novels by Jacqueline Manicom Michele Lacrosil Maryse Conde Simone Schwarz Bart and Dany Bebel Gisler Placing the work of these writers in the context of that of their better known male counterparts this study argues that it has provided an important mode of intervention in and disruption of a literary tradition which has failed to address questions of sexual difference and has often excluded issues relating to French Caribbean women At the same time this study suggests that Guadeloupean women s writing of the last thirty years may be seen to constitute a tradition in itself replete with its own influences and inheritances At once within and outside the dominant tradition women s writing from Guadeloupe and Martinique has come to occupy a position at the forefront of contemporary efforts to expand and redefine a still burgeoning corpus of literary and theoretical work
