Readings and Reflections Jane Johnston, John Halocha, 2010-09-16 This book explores the historical and philosophical ideas underpinning practice in early childhood and primary education It pulls together key extracts from influential sources and provides helpful editorial commentary explaining the importance of each article to provide an essential reader in early childhood and primary education It enables easy access to key theoretical ideas and seminal texts to provide a firm understanding of such ideas as well as placing current issues within an historical and theoretical context Reflective tasks provide opportunities for the reader to stand back from current practice and beliefs to review their own philosophy of education These tasks together with the editorial commentary help develop the necessary understandings and insights to engage in critical debate on current issues in professional practice Although early years and primary education are often seen as separate stages of development children are expected to progress from one stage to another in a seamless way and the historical and philosophical ideas influencing practice at the different stages are often the same or similar The book supports education professionals to understand and reflect on children s experiences across a range of stages This is an ideal book for students on Early Childhood Studies Early Years and Primary Education courses as well as professionals working with children from birth to 11 years of age Developmental Psychology Margaret Harris, George Butterworth, 2002

McKim,2008-06-03 Against the background of Socrates insight that the unexamined life is not worth living Reading Our Lives The Poetics of Growing Old investigates the often overlooked inside dimensions of aging Despite popular portrayals of mid and later life as entailing inevitable decline this book looks at aging as potentially a process of poiesis a creative endeavor of fashioning meaning from the ever accumulating texts memories and reflections that constitute our inner worlds At its center is the conviction that although we are constantly reading our lives to some degree anyway doing so in a mindful matter is critical to our development in the second half of life Drawing on research in numerous disciplines affected by the so called narrative turn including cognitive psychology neuroscience and the psychology of aging authors Randall and McKim articulate a vision of aging that promises to accommodate such time honored concepts as wisdom and spirituality one that understands aging as a matter not merely of getting old but of consciously growing old

Nine Years Old M. Pollak,2012-12-06 In 1972 Dr Margaret Pollak published her book Today's Three Year Olds in London This was a sensitive study of family life and the social environment of a large number of London children together with an account of their developmental assessment by various test methods She showed that variations of developmental performances were more closely related to the quality of family life than to social and economic factors Dr Pollak has now re-investigated the same children at nine years of age and this book is a record of her findings The differences in development which were noted at three years of age remain in the older children Those children who at three years of age were underachievers particularly in verbal and adaptive abilities are the children who at nine years can still be identified by lower achievement at school These results must be of important relevance to educationalists and all concerned with the psychologists as well as to paediatricians welfare of children We must all be disturbed by the failure of any children in our urban city centres to benefit from education and our anxieties must be heightened if amongst the underachievers there are particular groups who can be identified by their ethnic identities In Britain education in school occupies a relatively small part of a child's life Dr Pollak has identified some of the factors in a child's wider experience and especially in the total home environment which are associated with the persistence of inferior performance
