Readings in Family Science 371 Kathleen S. Bahr, 1996 Toward More Family-Centered Family Sciences Howard M. Bahr, Kathleen S. Bahr, 2009-03-16 Much academic writing on families reflects the ideal of non involvement and distanced subject matter Toward More Family Centered Family Sciences suggests that the family sciences in their effort to be scientific have perpetuated this distance between researcher and subject to the detriment of both The authors argue that family and kinship ties are transcendent ties boundary crossing in numerous ways They place an emphasis on family love in contrast and in addition to romantic love and criticize current approaches for neglecting the importance of transcendent concepts such as love commitment respect and sacrifice in the development and well being of family structures Drawing from insights both inside and outside of academia the authors seek to reincorporate transcendent concepts into the study of the family as a unit of society They argue for a more collaborative family centered family science and offer recommendations for how family researchers might work to change the scientific monologue about families to a systemic dialogue with families Handbook of Feminist Family Studies Sally A.
