M. Swanepoel, 2015-07-06 Markets and Institutions in Real Estate and Construction Michael Ball, 2008-04-15 The book explains why the real estate and construction industries are organised in the ways they are and then relates those characteristics to long term market behaviour It covers market dynamics supply and demand the interaction of property development and construction and examines institutions and market structures Real estate development and construction tend to be separate subjects in the literature But construction is an inevitable part of any property development process and so has a major influence on the institutional structure of development Markets Institutions in Real Estate Construction argues that these structures are best explained as a series of modern economic theories based on competition and current production technologies offers focus and breadth and deal with controversial debates economic arguments made accessible through a non technical writing style presents long run international comparison of property market behaviour reflects internationalisation of property and construction markets Real Estate Confronts Reality Tom Dooley, 1998 Consolidation Consumerism Each in its turn has rocked the real estate industry in the 1990s What will come next and how will it affect your business Real Estate Confronts Reality asks these questions and more What is the future for the National Association of Realtors Will the mortgage banking industry seize control of the real estate transaction What will be the ultimate impact of HFS s emergence in the real estate industry Will consumers continue to use real estate professionals or will FSBOs be the wave of the future To find out the answers to these questions read Real Estate Confronts Reality Real Estate J. A. "Tony" Ruano, 2018-06-24 This book has been qualified by experts and journalists as The Bible of Real Estate Carefully organized the book deals with the purchase sale rent administration finances insurance taxes associations of owners legal aspects and topics of varied nature including a deep and detailed analysis of investments in real estate Confronting Capital Pauline Gardiner Barber, Belinda Leach, Winnie Lem, 2012-10-12 This volume is an exploration of the ways in which political economy as a mode of analysis moves anthropology toward a vital politically engaged form of scholarship It advances the understanding of the struggles of ordinary people in the face of capitalist change In the current economic moment when such changes are tumultuous and the instabilities of capitalism are starkly revealed this book responds to the urgent need for theoretical and methodological approaches for understanding the forces that shape our contemporary world Through ethnographic investigations of the quotidian and through the thematic of politics history and livelihoods which distinguish Marxist political economy in the field of anthropology the authors here reveal the increasing complexity of everyday lives Using examples derived from fieldwork carried out across diverse geographical locations the authors pay particular attention to historical conditions shaping the peoples life trajectories In so doing the authors engage critically and with differing emphases with political economy and Marxism as a mode of inquiry This book illustrates the productive tension between observations emerging from the field and theoretical debates that is generated by anthropological ethnography

Confronting Land and Property Problems for Peace Shinichi Takeuchi,2014-06-05 This collection clarifies the background of land and property problems in conflict affected settings and explores appropriate policy measures for peace building While land and property problems exist in any society they can be particularly exacerbated in conflict affected settings characterized by unstable security weak governance loss of proper documentation as well as the return of refugees and Internally Displaced Persons Unless these problems are properly addressed they can destabilize fragile political order and hinder economic recovery Although tackling land and property problems is an important challenge for peace building it has been relatively neglected in recent debates about liberal peace building as a result of the strong focus on state level institution building such as security sector reforms and transitional justice Using rich original data from eight conflict affected countries this book examines the topic from the viewpoint of State society relationship In contrast to previous literature this volume analyses land and property problems in conflict afflicted areas from a long term perspective of state building and economic development rather than concentrating only on the immediate aftermath of the conflict The long term perspective enables not only an understanding of the root causes of the property problems in conflict affected countries but also elaboration of effective policy measures for peace Contributors are area specialists and the eight case study countries have been carefully selected for comparative study The collection applies a common framework to a diverse group of countries South Sudan Uganda Rwanda Burundi Cambodia Timor Leste Colombia and Bosnia Herzegovina

Confronting Desire Ilan Kapoor, 2020-09-15 By applying psychoanalytic perspectives to key themes concepts and practices underlying the development enterprise Confronting Desire offers a new way of analyzing the problems challenges and potentialities of international development Ilan Kapoor makes a compelling case for examining development's unconscious desires and in the process inaugurates a new field of study psychoanalytic development studies Drawing from the work of Jacques Lacan and Slavoj Žižek as well as from psychoanalytic postcolonial and feminist scholarship Kapoor analyzes how development's unconscious desires speak out most often in excessive and unpredictable ways that contradict the outwardly rational declarations of its practitioners He investigates development's many irrationalities from obsessions about growth and poverty to the perverse seductions of racism and over consumption By deploying key psychoanalytic concepts enjoyment fantasy antagonism fetishism envy drive perversion and hysteria Confronting Desire critically analyzes important issues in development growth poverty inequality participation consumption corruption gender race LGBTQ politics universality and revolution Confronting Desire offers prescriptions for applying psychoanalysis to development theory and practice and demonstrates how psychoanalysis can provide fertile ground for radical politics and the transformation of international development

Confronting Urban Legacy Xiangming Chen, Nick Bacon, 2013-10-18 Confronting Urban Legacy fills a critical lacuna in urban scholarship As almost all of the literature focuses on global cities and megacities smaller secondary cities which actually hold the majority of the world's population are either critically misunderstood or unexamined in their entirety This neglect not only biases scholars' understanding of social and spatial dynamics toward very large global cities but also maintains a void in students' learning This book specifically explores the transformative relationship between globalization and urban transition in Hartford Connecticut while including crucial comparative chapters on other forgotten New England cities Portland Maine along with Lawrence and Springfield Massachusetts Hartford's transformation carries a striking imprint of globalization that has been largely missed from its 17th century roots as New England's first inland colonial settlement to its emergence as one of the world's most prosperous manufacturing and insurance metropolises to its present configuration as one of America's poorest post industrial cities which by still retaining a globally lucrative FIRE Sector is nevertheless surrounded by one of the nation's most prosperous metropolitan regions The myriad of dilemmas confronting Hartford calls for this book to take an interdisciplinary approach The editors' introduction places Hartford in a global comparative perspective Part I provides rich historical delineations of the many rises and not quite falls of Hartford Part II offers a broad contemporary treatment of Hartford by dissecting recent immigration and examining the demographic and educational dimensions of the city suburban divide and Part III unpacks Hartford's current social economic and political situation and discusses what the city could become Using the lessons from this book on Hartford and other underappreciated secondary cities in New England urban scholars leaders and residents alike can gain a number of essential insights both theoretical and practical Confronting Black Jacobins Gerald Horne,2015-10-22 The Haitian Revolution the product of the first successful slave revolt was truly world historic in its impact When Haiti declared independence in 1804 the leading powers France Great Britain and Spain suffered an ignominious defeat and the New World was remade The island revolution also had a profound impact on Haiti's mainland neighbor the United States Inspiring the enslaved and partisans of emancipation while striking terror throughout the Southern slaveocracy it propelled the fledgling nation one step closer to civil war Gerald Horne's path breaking new work explores the complex and often fraught relationship between the United States and the island of Hispaniola Giving particular attention to the responses of African Americans Horne surveys the reaction in the United States to the revolutionary process in the nation that became Haiti the splitting of the island in 1844 which led to the formation of the Dominican Republic and the failed attempt by the United States to annex both in the 1870s Drawing upon a rich collection of archival and other primary source materials Horne deftly weaves together a disparate array of voices world leaders and diplomats slaveholders white abolitionists and the freedom fighters he terms Black Jacobins Horne at once illuminates the tangled conflicts of the colonial powers the commercial interests and imperial ambitions of U S elites and the brutality and tenacity of the American slaveholding class while never losing sight of the freedom struggles of Africans both on the island and on the mainland which sought the fulfillment of the emancipatory promise of 18th century republicanism Confronting Mainstream Economics for Overcoming Capitalism Rémy Herrera,2022-07-06 This book provides analytical arguments that demonstrate the necessity to go beyond not only mainstream economics but also and especially the capitalist economy itself It provides a radical critique of mainstream economics comparing it to an unscientific form of single thought and applies this criticism to the specific fields of growth development the institutions defense or the environment It targets both neoclassical economics and reformist soft heterodox currents from neoinstitutionalists to neo Keynesians including Thomas Piketty or Amartya Sen among others In doing so it rejects Keynes theories of money the crisis and the state It then offers a Marxist interpretation of the current crisis of capitalism considering it as a systemic crisis without solutions internal to its own logic and dynamics and emphasizes the links between this capitalist crisis and imperialist wars and the destruction of the environment and natural resources by capital The book concludes by arguing that we must find the necessary theoretical and practical alternatives in a Marxist perspective advocating for socialist transitions away from the capitalist economy to protect humanity and the environment New National Real Estate Journal ,1922 Confronting the Climate Challenge Lawrence Goulder,Marc Hafstead,2017-12-26 Without significant reductions of greenhouse gas emissions climate change will cause substantial damage to the environment and the economy. The scope of the threat demands a close look at the policies capable of reducing the harm. Confronting the Climate Challenge presents a unique framework for evaluating the impacts of a range of U.S. climate policy options both for the economy overall and for particular household groups, industries, and regions. Lawrence Goulder and Marc Hafstead focus on four alternative approaches for reducing carbon dioxide emissions: a revenue neutral carbon tax, a cap and trade program, a clean energy standard, and an increase in the federal gasoline tax. They demonstrate that these policies, if designed correctly, not only can achieve emissions reductions at low cost but also can avoid placing undesirable burdens on low-income household groups or especially vulnerable industries. Goulder and Hafstead apply a multiperiod, economy-wide general equilibrium model that is distinct in its attention to investment dynamics and to interactions between climate policy and the tax system. Exploiting the unique features of the model, they contrast the shorter and longer term policy impacts and focus on alternative ways of feeding back or recycling policy-generated revenues to the private sector. Their work shows how careful policy design, including the judicious use of policy-generated revenues, can achieve desired reductions in carbon dioxide emissions at low cost, avoid uneven impacts across household income groups, and prevent losses of profit in the most vulnerable U.S. industries. The urgency of the climate problem demands comprehensive action, and Confronting the Climate Challenge offers important insights that can help elevate policy discussions and spur needed efforts on the climate front.
