

A young boy with dark hair, wearing a dark blue sweater over a white collared shirt, is smiling and looking down at a large, rusty metal gear mechanism he is holding. The background is a vibrant red with faint, large numbers (0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9) scattered across it. The overall image has a soft, ethereal quality with a light blue and white gradient at the top.

Erosion of Reality by Spatialisation and Digitalisation Pieter Brabers,2021-01-01 This book offers an innovative view of everyday reality It clarifies how the spatial dimension of reality as well as our personal and interpersonal perception and interaction with reality aggravates human separateness at the expense of human connectedness It shows how many urgent societal challenges are affected by an imbalance between spatial and the non spatial aspects and offers an analysis of the impoverishment of society both in spatial terms spatialisation and in informational terms digitalisation Drawing on insights from quantum physics and depth psychology it proposes an unorthodox view of the potential of humans and of reality in itself that was lost in this impoverishment I found this book hugely interesting highly original and very well written I haven't come across these ideas presented in quite this way and so the book could be considered a groundbreaking contribution Dr Stephan Harding Resident Ecologist Schumacher College Author of Animate Earth It rarely happens that we are invited by a scholarly text to look at reality in a basically different way than the one we are used to at least in a way that is seductive and compelling at the same time But this is precisely what the text of Pieter Brabers has done with me Dr John Rijsman Emeritus Professor of Social Psychology Tilburg University Pieter Brabers monumental treatise draws our attention to possibly the key problem that underlies all our problems the way we construct reality Brabers opens the way to a better reality construction and understanding this form could highlight even if not necessarily immediately resolve the problems generated by our faulty reality as he calls it I recommend this book to all serious students of the disconnect that marks the fault of the contemporary view of the world Dr Ervin Laszlo author of The Akasha Paradigm Pieter Brabers 1944 studied Architecture and worked as a Lecturer at Delft University of Technology the Netherlands He has lived for the last 20 years in the south of Spain Using Understanding by Design in the Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Classroom Amy J. Heineke, Jay McTighe, 2018-07-11 How can today's teachers whose classrooms are more culturally and linguistically diverse than ever before ensure that their students achieve at high levels How can they design units and lessons that support English learners in language development and content learning simultaneously Authors Amy Heineke and Jay McTighe provide the answers by adding a lens on language to the widely used Understanding by Design framework UbD framework for curriculum design which emphasizes teaching for understanding not rote memorization Readers will learn the components of the UbD framework the fundamentals of language and language development how to use diversity as a valuable resource for instruction by gathering information about students background knowledge from home community and school how to design units and lessons that integrate language development with content learning in the form of essential knowledge and skills and how to assess in ways that enable language learners to reveal their academic knowledge Student profiles real life classroom scenarios and sample units and lessons provide compelling examples of how teachers in all grade levels and content areas use the UbD framework in their culturally and linguistically diverse classrooms Combining these practical examples with findings from an extensive research base the authors deliver a useful and authoritative guide for reaching the overarching goal ensuring that all students have equitable access to high quality curriculum and instruction
