Marketing Decisions Ritu Mehta, 2019-04-24 This book looks at customer value creation through marketing decisions and analyses the critical phases of theoretical and methodological advancements in solving certain problems and customer centric issues that firms face. The chapters highlight how theories have been borrowed from sociology, psychology and economics to understand phenomena such as customer preferences and decision making and how operations research and statistical tools have been applied to take optimal decisions on marketing related issues such as channel management and pricing. The volume covers an array of topics including marketing orientation, consumer behaviour and marketing mix comprising the elements of product, price, promotion and place. The articles offer both methodological and theoretical contributions and also discuss some key results of implementation of marketing strategies by various firms. This book will be of interest to researchers and students of marketing, consumer behaviour, business management, economics, finance, international marketing, services marketing and international business.

Marketing Michael Baker, 1998 Marketing Managerial Foundations provides students with a sound understanding of marketing theory and practice and does so in an Australian and New Zealand context. It is an introductory text that goes beyond the prescriptive approach. It seeks to meet the needs of a discipline that is now accepted as a fundamental aspect of business and one which needs and deserves an academic base of context, concept and application. No theoretical stone is left unturned as good practice is supported by essential theoretical frameworks. Students will find more discussion of the various arguments that provide views on the foundations and application of marketing. Concepts such as relationship marketing are traced and explored. The book provides a strong foundation for the study of marketing and is essential reading for the newcomer to marketing as well as being a valuable reference for the marketing professional.

How to Get Published in the Best Marketing Journals

David W. Stewart, Daniel M. Ladik, 2019 This essential guide edited by experienced journal editors is the definitive sourcebook for prospective authors who are seeking direction and advice about developing academic papers in marketing that will have a high probability of publication in the best journals in the discipline. It brings together a wealth of contributors all of whom are experienced researchers and have been published in the leading marketing journals.

Marketing Decisions Under Uncertainty Dung Nguyen, 2012-12-06 Remarkable advance in quantitative marketing research in the last two decades incorporating applied microeconomic theories, operations research and management applications has brought the field of marketing alongside with finance, accounting and production to within an executive's reach for a sophisticated toolbox for decision making in an increasingly competitive and complex business environment. A quick look at Marketing, a recently published book edited by Eliashberg and Lilien, would indicate even to the casual reader the extent of such methodological progress made by marketing scholars. Even in such an impressive and nearly exhaustive collection of topics with the notable exception pointed out by the editors of applications of the scanner data and in spite of the reference to it, an important omission is related to the issues of marketing decisions under conditions of uncertainty. It is fairly obvious to the marketing executive and academician alike to recognize the important role uncertainty plays in marketing decisions such as pricing promotion advertising sales force management and others The major purpose of this study is to address certain major marketing decision variables within the general context of an uncertain environment While there have been significant progresses in analyzing marketing behaviors in a stochastic environment the source scatter among different management and marketing journals and to the extent that these issues are addressed at all they have aimed mainly at each separate specific topic at a time Thus our effort to bring these studies together in the same framework should facilitate our in depth analysis of these important phenomena

Building Models for Marketing Decisions Peter S.H. Lee, Dick R. Wittink, Michel Wedel, Philippe A. Naert, 2013-06-29 This book is about marketing models and the process of model building Our primary focus is on models that can be used by managers to support marketing decisions It has long been known that simple models usually outperform judgments in predicting outcomes in a wide variety of contexts For example models of judgments tend to provide better forecasts of the outcomes than the judgments themselves because the model eliminates the noise in judgments And since judgments never fully reflect the complexities of the many forces that influence outcomes it is easy to see why models of actual outcomes should be very attractive to marketing decision makers Thus appropriately constructed models can provide insights about structural relations between marketing variables Since models explicate the relations both the process of model building and the model that ultimately results can improve the quality of marketing decisions Managers often use rules of thumb for decisions For example a brand manager will have defined a specific set of alternative brands as the competitive set within a product category Usually this set is based on perceived similarities in brand characteristics advertising messages etc If a new marketing initiative occurs for one of the other brands the brand manager will have a strong inclination to react The reaction is partly based on the manager's desire to maintain some competitive parity in the marketing variables

Theory of Financial Markets Jan Mossin, 1972 Monograph on financial market theory and the economics of uncertainty examines capital market phenomena and offers a theoretical framework for financial policy formulation and corporate investment decision making
