dedicates chapters to addressing common inquiries of conducting ISLA research e.g. obtaining ethics permission, recruiting your own students, working with small and heterogeneous sample sizes, accounting for individual differences, and to maximizing research impact beyond academia. Written by leading experts on each topic, this book is an essential resource for ISLA, SLA, and research methods scholars. Studying Second Language Acquisition from a Qualitative Perspective Danuta Gabryś-Barker, Adam Wojtaszek, 2014-09-18. This book presents a selection of empirical papers dealing with second and multiple language acquisition in which qualitative research methodology is employed. Each of the studies reported in individual chapters is based on a solid theoretical background and an overview of studies in a given area. Although the main focus is on qualitative methods, some of the papers demonstrate the complementarity of quantitative and qualitative approaches in studying language acquisition. An Introduction to Second Language Acquisition Research Diane Larsen-Freeman, Michael H. Long, 1991. Understanding how people learn and fail to learn second and foreign languages is increasingly recognised as a critical social and psycholinguistic issue. Second languages are vitally important to diverse groups of people ranging from refugees to college students facing foreign language requirements. This book provides a synthesis of empirical findings on second and foreign language learning by children and adults, emphasising the design and execution of appropriate research. Approaches and Methods in French Second Language Acquisition Research Martin Howard, 2025-06-15. Against the backdrop of the critical importance of recognising the specificity of learning languages other than English, LOTE in Second Language Acquisition (SLA) research, this volume focuses on a state-of-the-art presentation of the research approaches and methods that characterise French as second language (L2) within contemporary SLA research. The presentation problematises those approaches and methods as a critique of what has been done, identifying a methodological roadmap of what needs to be done in order to advance the methodological agenda in L2 French and its contribution to wider SLA research. The discussion further aims to bridge the interface between methodological issues and the research investigation of a specific LOTE, French, such as in terms of its linguistic characterisation and developmental issues underpinning its acquisition. The analysis extends to approaches and methods across different theoretical paradigms in L2 French in different areas of linguistic development among learners in different learning contexts. Research Methods in Generative Second Language Acquisition Roumyana Slabakova, Tania Leal, Laura Domínguez, 2024-09-04. This timely text provides a comprehensive overview of the research methods used by the Generative Second Language Acquisition framework. The authors lay out the history and state of the art in the field, explain the theoretical underpinnings of this work, and offer practical hands-on guidance for developing, conducting, and understanding studies related to L2 grammatical competence using a rich array of techniques, and advancing key insights into the rationale and circumstantial pros and cons of each method. With useful features in a consistent chapter structure, including diverse case studies and discussion questions, the book will be an invaluable resource to students and researchers of SLA, applied linguistics, theoretical linguistics.
