Handbook of Behavior Modification with the Mentally Retarded Johnny L. Matson, 2013-11-22 The development of behavior modification principles and procedures and the ensuing research have had a dramatic impact on services for mentally re tarded persons This book is the second edition of a volume that is designed to update readers on some of these many developments Although many of the chapter titles and authors from the first edition remain unchanged we have added additional chapters to reflect new areas of research The book is thus a critical review of this literature and as such provides essential and important notions about what we know and what can be done to expand our current knowledge The authors of the chapters are all recognized experts who have been active in publishing in the research areas they critique As a result they have a good understanding of what are the major issues in the field And because they are also active in service provision to persons with identified handicaps their material will be especially useful to practitioners and it is hoped to those professionals who are working in the field in establishing data based treatments One important change in the field has concerned the terminology used to We are aware that persons with mental retardation are no longer referred to as the mentally retarded and although no disrespect is intended for the sake of continuity the original title has been retained on the advice of the publisher Behavioural and Social Rehabilitation and Training Roy I. Brown, E. Anne Hughson, 1993

Thinking Globally Acting Locally Peter Mittler, 2010 This unusual book is more than just the memoir of a distinguished career It is a history of the twentieth century reflected in the life and work of one individual It begins in 1938 with a year in the life of an eight year old Viennese Jewish boy as he experiences the worst and best of humanity from Nazi persecution to rescue by strangers through the Kindertransports It tells of his encounters with an English schooling system at its worst and best and of his formative years But this is not a story of one person s liberation That little refugee boy grew up to contribute to the liberation of hundreds of thousands of people world wide Influenced by his own early experiences Peter Mittler has spent a lifetime committed to the human rights of people with intellectual disabilities From their liberation from the big institutions left over from the nineteenth century to their inclusion in shaping the 2008 United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities it tells the story of a dynamic and powerful human rights movement It is perhaps the last great untold story the story of how persons with intellectual disabilities finally gained the right to respect value and autonomy and of the long struggle for schooling access to work and their own front door key This memoir weaves professional memories and accounts of collaboration across the global village with anecdotes and travellers tales to reflect a global perspective from someone who was there at every twist and turn working with families teachers researchers governments and self advocates for over 60 years to influence legislation and drive lasting reform

EXTRACTS FROM BOOK REVIEWS

Dame Phillipa Russell from foreword Socrates is reputed to have said that each generation produces a very small number of hero innovators who change the way in which society values its citizens For me and for many others Peter Mittler is indeed one of those hero innovators radically changing both national and international attitudes towards people with intellectual and other disabilities and their families Duncan Mitchell British Journal of Learning Disabilities Peter Mittler is one of the giants of learning disability in the second half of the twentieth century It is rare to find such a wonderfully understated page turner Ingrid Lunt Journal of Research in Special Educational Needs The book succeeds in going far beyond an autobiography is easy to read and carries the reader through with the strong narrative Paul Williams Community Living What an incredibly full and constructive life The book is very well written and highly readable David Mitchell International Journal of Disability Development and Education Peter Mittler has the happy knack of being able to synthesise disparate material in an interesting manner with an eye to the broader philosophical context This book is a fitting summation of one man's personal journey to address inequalities particularly as they apply to those among us who have disabilities Chris Cullen History of Psychology and Philosophy This is a fascinating book which chronicles the life journey of Peter Mittler a leading exponent of evidence based services and social inclusion for people with intellectual impairments More than this though it is a history of the slow and often halting progress which has been made in the United Kingdom and throughout the Inclusive Physical Activities Alexandre J. S. Morin, Christophe Maïano, Danielle Tracey, Rhonda G. Craven, 2017-03-01 Increasing numbers of children and adolescents internationally are being diagnosed with secondary health problems e.g. overweight obesity diabetes asthma anxiety etc due in part or at least related to a lack of physical activity Children and adolescents with various forms of special needs for example children and adolescents with physical or intellectual disabilities children and adolescents from disadvantaged social backgrounds and children and adolescents with chronic illnesses seem to be particularly at risk for secondary health problems which in the end limit their social participation and inclusion as well as their ability to achieve their full potential and to lead happy and fulfilling lives For these children and adolescents involvement in regular physical activities including fitness activities and sports may have far reaching benefits For instance organized physical activities are known to represent an effective vehicle for interventions for children and adolescents with special needs who do not seem to benefit as much as others from more traditional verbal oriented approaches Organized physical activities in or out of school further provide these children and adolescents with opportunities to interact in a positive manner with prosocial peers and adults who may serve as positive role models for them There is currently a paucity of research about physical activities that effectively include children and adolescents with a range of special needs or research that identifies evidence based strategies that seed success in maximizing the involvement in and the positive biopsychosocial outcomes associated with the practice of physical activity This dearth of research is impeding progress in addressing the biopsychosocial disadvantage that these children and adolescents encounter the development of new solutions for enabling full potential and ensuring that children and adolescents with special needs not only succeed but also flourish in life This volume includes examples of theory research policy and practice that will advance our understanding of how best to encourage these children and adolescents to participate regularly in physical activity how to maximize the biopsychosocial benefits of involvement in physical activities and how to ensure that these physical activities are inclusive for children and adolescents with special needs The focus will be placed on research derived physical activity practices that seed success for children and adolescents with special needs and new directions in theory research and practice that have implications for enhancing physical activity practices with at risk children and adolescents The themes covered in this volume include Strategies to maximise participation of children and adolescents with special needs in physical activity as a global priority Strategies to maximise the social inclusion of children and adolescents with special needs in general physical activities Effective physical education strategies to enhance biopsychosocial outcomes for children and adolescents with special needs Advancing the practice of educators and coaches to cultivate the social inclusion and participation in physical activity of children and adolescents with special needs and Challenging the meaning and implementation of inclusive practices in physical education globally
