Human, Zorodzai (Zoro) Dube, Gerda de Villiers, P.G.J. (Piet) Meiring, Jerry Pillay, Wayne G. Smith, Christo Thesnaar, John Robert van Niekerk, Ernest van Eck, Tanya van Wyk, Pieter M. Venter, Johan M. van der Merwe, 2017-11-28 This book provides a coherent and conceptual portrayal of aspects of the theological research theme entitled Ecodomy literally meaning to build a house In

its figurative meaning the term Ecodomy addresses the theme life in its fullness This fullness of life entails a polarity which is inherently part of life namely its brokenness and its wholeness From various theological disciplines namely Old Testament Studies New Testament Studies Systematic Theology Church History and Practical Theology both the brokenness and wholeness are addressed theologically Every chapter focuses on a specific theological discipline while the combination of theological disciplines addresses the brokenness and wholeness of life as coherent concept One pole does not exclude the other Brokenness is visible in current or recent very relevant societal challenges such as racism and xenophobia apartheid foreignness and exclusivism leadership crises and violence In contrast wholeness is embedded in themes such as the African concept of ubuntu a life of faith and wisdom reconciling leadership or transforming space and community Ultimately a Greek term persistence is connected to the meaning of Ecodomy and life in its fullness Several methodologies have been used in the different contributions of the book Every theological discipline applies a different methodology for the purpose of exposing a specific topic or research theme In general the contributions in this book follow a combination of a literature study with the further application of diachronic and synchronic exegetical methods In addition single contributions follow an own hermeneutical approach Not one single contribution but a combination of different theological disciplines which form the concepts of brokenness and wholeness life in its fullness which expose the polarity of life are included in this book In its exposed interdisciplinary interwovenness the book provides a tapestry of how different theological disciplines are combined into a single theme and how they contribute together by means of theological analyses and attempted building blocks to build the broken houses of societal structures or human life The book contributes to selected aspects of broken life in society and the healing experiences of human life Several themes touch on recent and relevant challenges which have contributed to the brokenness of life Not only in South Africa but globally these are currently relevant themes They include realities of racism and xenophobia apartheid foreignness and exclusivism leadership crises and violence With the focus on wholeness specific attention is given to the African concept of ubuntu a life of faith and wisdom reconciling leadership and transforming space and society A Greek term insolence as in keeping on asking Lk 11 8 illuminates the theme of Ecodomy from the perspective of a parable The target audience of the book is academic scholars and theologians who specialise in the different fields of Theology the Humanities and other Social Sciences Furthermore the book is also accessible to scholars of other academic disciplines outside these disciplines The book contains original research and contributions have not been plagiarised from publications elsewhere

Grabbe, 2006-07-27 In the first of four volumes on A History of the Jews and Judaism in the Second Temple Period Lester Grabbe presents a comprehensive history of Yehud the Aramaic name for Judah during the Persian Period Among the many crucial questions he addresses are What are the sources for this period and how do we evaluate them And how do we make them speak to us through the fog of centuries This first volume Yehud A History of the Persian Province of Judah offers the most up to date and comprehensive examination of the political and administrative structures the society and economy the religion temple and cult the developments in thought and literature and the major political events of Judah at the time Journeying with God Katharine Doob Sakenfeld, 1995 Although little studied by most Christians the book of Numbers offers a rich storehouse of material for reflection on the relationship between God and the human community This excellent commentary highlights this theme in the context of interpreting the many strange and obscure stories and laws of Israel's wilderness journey Engaging the Bible in a Gendered World Linda Day, Carolyn Pressler, 2006-01-01 In highly accessible essays the book covers the history achievements and cutting edge questions in the area of gender and biblical scholarship including violence and the Bible female biblical God imagery and sexuality Jacket

Letting the Other Speak Tracy Hartman, 2011-11-17 From prostitutes to polygamy witches to widows foreigners to slaves the Bible is full of texts about women who have been classified as other and pushed to the margins of society In the academy feminist liberation and post colonial theologians have challenged the disparaging categorization of these biblical women and redefined them as sacred insiders whose contributions to Judeo Christian history offer ongoing lessons about the inclusive nature of God Letting the Other Speak Proclaiming the Stories of Biblical Women helps pastors Christian educators professors and theological students bring the stories of six controversial biblical women to congregations by surveying historical and contemporary exegetical work on each passage modeling exegesis a congregation in preparation for moving from text to sermon and providing two sample sermons one prophetic and one pastoral for each text Appealing to God or Man Nicholas J. Campbell, 2025-03-31 Appealing to God or Man Contrasting Barrenness and Family Death Narratives in the Hebrew Bible and Ancient Near East argues for a reevaluation of barrenness type scenes in the Hebrew Bible and ancient Near East More specifically the argument is for a distinction women in family death narratives appeal to men while women in barrenness narratives appeal to God Even the male centric epics of the ancient Near East show that women interact with the divine more during barrenness crises e.g. the wife's prophetic dream in the Etana myth than during family death crises e.g. male divine narratives in Kirta and Aqhat This distinction not only clarifies the narrative tropes but emphasizes the role of women in these crises and intersects with discussions of household roles in the ancient Near East Male and female roles in marriage and fertility drive the responses of characters in these idealized narrative worlds especially in family death and barrenness narratives Equally Yoked Matthew R. Akers, 2016-03-03 During the past fifty years Western culture has experienced a significant shift in its overall stance regarding multiethnic marriage As a result more North Americans than ever marry spouses whose ethnicity or culture differs from theirs This trend also is observable in Christian circles Unfortunately few resources exist to help multiethnic couples maneuver through the potential minefield of cultural collision The purpose of this volume is to provide such a resource Equally Yoked examines the subject of multiethnic marriage from a biblical perspective before considering a history of the practice in North America over the last four centuries Additionally this book surveys the challenges that multiethnic Christian couples frequently encounter and offers premarital counseling propositions that will prove valuable to both counselors and couples who originate from diverse backgrounds The
