Ruth Bay And The Minotaur:

Ruth Bay and the Minotaur C. McIntosh, 2004-12 Ruth Bay a shy and bookish ten year old girl loves to ride her bicycle to nearby Lavender Village Bookstore In the corner of the store sits an enchanted armchair One day feeling more adventurous than usual Ruth sits in the chair to read an Egyptian history book She suddenly finds herself magically transported into the pages Thrust back in time and all at once able to interact with the storybook s characters Ruth Bay embarks on an amazing journey and encounters a multitude of people and mythical creatures including a mummy a goddess and an evil dictator Minotaur who has overthrown the king Why not come along on Ruth s remarkable adventure and see if you too can face your fears

Ruth Asawa and the Artist-Mother at Midcentury Jordan Troeller, 2025-07-01 How a group of artist mothers in postwar San Francisco refused the centuries old belief that a woman could not make art while also raising children For most of modern history to be an artist and a mother was to embody a contradiction in terms This awful dichotomy as painter Alice Neel put it pitted artmaking against caretaking and argued that the best art was made at the expense of family and futurity But in San Francisco in the 1950s and 1960s a group of artists gathered around Ruth Asawa 1926 2013 began to reject this dominant narrative In Ruth Asawa and the Artist Mother at Midcentury Jordan Troeller analyzes this remarkable moment Insisting that their labor as mothers fueled their labor as artists these women redefined key aesthetic concerns of their era including autonomy medium specificity and originality Delving into the archive where the traces of motherhood have not yet been erased from official history Troeller reveals Ruth Asawa s personal and professional dialogue with several other artist mothers including Merry Renk Imogen Cunningham and Sally Woodbridge For these women motherhood was not an essentialized identity but rather a means to reimagine the terms of artmaking outside of the patriarchal policing of reproduction This project unfolded in three broad areas which also structure the book s chapters domesticity and decoration metaphors for creativity and maternal labor in the public sphere especially in the public schools Drawing on queer theory and feminist writings Troeller argues that in belatedly accounting for the figure of the artist mother art history must reckon with an emergent paradigm of artmaking one predicated on reciprocity caretaking and futurity
