Greenbelt, Maryland Cathy D. Knepper, 2001 Built in the 1930s on worn out tobacco land between Baltimore and Washington D C the planned community of Greenbelt Maryland was designed to provide homes for low income families as well as jobs for its builders In keeping with the spirit of the New Deal the physical design of the town contributed to cooperation among its residents and the government further encouraged cooperation by helping residents form business cooperatives and social organizations In Greenbelt Maryland Cathy D Knepper offers the first comprehensive look at this important social experiment Knepper describes the origins of Greenbelt the ideology of its founders and their struggle to create a cooperative planned community in the capitalist United States She tells how the town saved at one point by the intervention of Eleanor Roosevelt struggled through the McCarthy years when it was branded socialistic and even communistic In conclusion she provides a timely analysis of those qualities that not only helped the town survive but also served as the model for currents in urban development that have once again come into vogue in such movements as the new urbanism and traditional neighborhood development

Jellyfish and Polyps Antonella Leone, Gian Luigi Mariottini, Stefano Piraino, 2020-11-20 This Special Issue of Marine Drugs gathers recent investigations on the proteomes metabolomes transcriptomes and the associated microbiomes of marine jellyfish and polyps including bioactivity studies of their compounds and more generally on their biotechnological potential witnessing the increasingly recognized importance of Cnidaria as a largely untapped Blue Growth resource for new drug discovery These researches evoke the outstanding ecological importance of cnidarians in marine ecosystems worldwide calling for a global monitoring and conservation of marine biodiversity so that the biotechnological exploitation of marine living resources will be carried out to conserve and sustainably use the natural capital of the oceans
