Sadness Because the Video Rental Store Was Closed

by Mark Kostabi

Art and TVs, sex and Walkmans, money and computers: these are the principal figures in this visual parody of human evolution as we near the end of the twentieth century. Based on the paintings of artist Mark Kostabi, the stories collected here are told entirely in pictures, their narratives moving with the reader's eye from image to image. The result is a hilarious satire of the human condition as it becomes reduced to connections between androgynous input/output devices, a world, not too distant from our own, in which computers manage human workers and sex is a matter of "connectivity" or—more graphically speaking—"plugging in."

But Kostabi's final judgment is not without hope in the power of creativity and, especially, humor. Again and again his paintings ask us to see ourselves as our own worst enemies, to laugh at the ghosts we have created, and to stop taking ourselves so damn seriously. Above all, Kostabi is a master of the visual pun. Many of his paintings appropriate and transform oddly familiar images, images Kostabi borrows as readily from old master paintings as from advertisements for exercise machines and yuppie dreamscapes, images he "borrows" only to "return" them with the interest paid in parody. Speaking of his madcap method (continued on back flap.)
