Faith and the Philosophy of History Martin Wight, 2025-02-25 This book collects works by the late Professor Martin Wight 1913 1972 an historian and scholar of international relations Wight conducted research on many topics including British colonial history European studies international institutions and the history of states systems He is nonetheless best known for his lectures about the political philosophy of international relations at the London School of Economics 1949 1961 and the University of Sussex 1961 1972 He is widely regarded as an intellectual ancestor and pathbreaker of the English School of international relations even though this term only gained currency nine years after his death While there is no generally accepted definition of the English School it is usually construed as signifying an approach to the study of international relations more rooted in historical and humanistic learning than in the social sciences Wight's achievements are consistent with this broad definition This volume draws together a number of Wight's published works as well as many of his previously unpublished obscurely published and anonymous writings about faith and the philosophy of history Owing to his premature death at the age of 58 he was unable to complete several works in progress partly because his perfectionism led him to refrain from publishing many of them Augustine and the Art of Ruling in the Carolingian Imperial Period Sophia Moesch, 2019-06-26 The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.tandfebooks.com/doi/view/10.4324/9781351116022> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 licence DOI <https://doi.org/10.4324/9781351116022> Published with the support of the Swiss National Science Foundation This volume is an investigation of how Augustine was received in the Carolingian period and the elements of his thought which had an impact on Carolingian ideas of state rulership and ethics It focuses on Alcuin of York and Hincmar of Rheims authors and political advisers to Charlemagne and to Charles the Bald respectively It examines how they used Augustinian political thought and ethics as manifested in the De civitate Dei to give more weight to their advice A comparative approach sheds light on the differences between Charlemagne's reign and that of his grandson It scrutinizes Alcuin's and Hincmar's discussions of empire rulership and the moral conduct of political agents during which both drew on the De civitate Dei although each came away with a different understanding By means of a philological historical approach the book offers a deeper reading and treats the Latin texts as political discourses defined by content and language

Histories of Postmodernism Mark Bevir, Jill Hargis, Sara Rushing, 2020-09-19 Histories of Postmodernism reexamines the history of the constellation of ideas and thinkers associated with postmodernism The increasingly dominant historical narrative depicts a relatively smooth development of ideas from Friedrich Nietzsche and Martin Heidegger through a range of French theorists most notably Jacques Derrida and Michel Foucault to contemporary American thinkers such as Richard Rorty Edward Said and Judith Butler Histories of Postmodernism challenges this narrative by highlighting the local contexts of relevant theorists and thus the crucial distinctions that divide successive articulations of the themes and concepts associated with postmodernism As postmodern ideas traveled from nineteenth century Germany to mid twentieth century France and on to the contemporary United States so the relevant theorists transformed that heritage within the context of particular intellectual traditions and specific political and aesthetic issues Allegoresis Longxi Zhang, 2018-05-31 Why is it that a text particularly a canonical text is often said to contain a meaning different from what it literally says How did allegorical readings arise and develop By looking at such examples as Jewish and Christian interpretations of the Song of Songs and traditional Chinese commentaries on the Confucian classic Book of Poetry Zhang Longxi discusses allegorical readings from a broad perspective that bridges the usual East West cultural divide and examines their social and political implications His approach is wide ranging cross cultural and cross disciplinary exploring allegoresis with regard to religion philosophy and literature In his inquiry into allegory and allegorical interpretation Zhang examines the idea of a self explanatory text of the Bible as conceived by Augustine Aquinas and Luther discusses the importance of the literal basis of textual interpretation and takes up the question of moral responsibility and political allegiance Zhang who regards utopia as an allegory of social and political ideas explores how utopian visions vary in their Chinese and Western expressions in the process commenting on contemporary literary theory and political readings of literature past and present Metropolitan Pulpit and Homiletic Monthly ,1894 The American Indian and the Problem of History Calvin Martin,1987 North American Indians have traditionally held conceptions of history time and the universe that are vastly different from those of European civilizations How then can Western historians begin to write accurately and without bias about societies who shunned history and who performed in our Western vision and errand of history only through coercion Here eighteen prominent authors wrestle with the phenomenon that in writing about Indian white relations they are perforce trying to mesh two fundamentally different world views In pieces written expressly for this volume the contributors who include a cross section of historians anthropologists professional writers and native Americans cover such diverse topics as cultural pluralism and ethnocentrism native American dancing and ritual the experiences of native American women and attitudes toward the environment In considering the deep and chronic issues of Indian white relations these controversial essays look anew at Indian cultural ideals and restore them to their proper place in American history The Homiletic Review ,1907

Homiletic Review ,1907 Seeming Knowledge John D. Cox,2007 Seeming Knowledge revisits the question of Shakespeare and religion by focusing on the conjunction of faith and skepticism in his writing Cox argues that the relationship between faith and skepticism is not an invented conjunction The recognition of the history of faith and skepticism in the sixteenth century illuminates a tradition that Shakespeare inherited and represented more subtly and effectively than any other writer of his generation The houses of history Anna Green,Kathleen Troup,2016-08-15 The houses of history is a clear jargon free introduction to the major theoretical approaches employed by historians This innovative critical reader provides accessible introductions to fourteen schools of thought from the empiricist to the postcolonial including chapters on Marxist history Freud and psychohistory the Annales historical sociology narrative gender public history and the history of the emotions Each chapter begins with a succinct description of the ideas integral to a particular theory The authors then explore the insights and controversies arising from the application of this model drawing upon debates and examples from around the world Each chapter concludes with a representative example from a historian writing within this conceptual framework This newly revised edition of the highly successful textbook is the ideal basis for an introductory course in history and theory for students of history at all levels The Sacred and Profane in English Renaissance Literature Mary Arshagouni Papazian,2008 This collection of 13 original essays addresses how properly to define the intersection between the sacred and profane in early modern English literature These essays cover a variety of works published in 16th and 17th century England as well as a variety of genres The Monthly Religious Magazine ,1865

Sacred Aid Michael Barnett,Janice Gross Stein,2012-07-03 The global humanitarian movement which originated within

Western religious organizations in the early nineteenth century has been of most important forces in world politics in advancing both human rights and human welfare While the religious groups that founded the movement originally focused on conversion in time more secular concerns came to dominate By the end of the nineteenth century increasingly professionalized yet nominally religious organization shifted from reliance on the good book to the public health manual Over the course of the twentieth century the secularization of humanitarianism only increased and by the 1970s the movement's religious inspiration generally speaking was marginal to its agenda However beginning in the 1980s religiously inspired humanitarian movements experienced a major revival and today they are virtual equals of their secular brethren From church sponsored AIDS prevention campaigns in Africa to Muslim charity efforts in flood stricken Pakistan to Hindu charities in India religious groups have altered the character of the global humanitarian movement Moreover even secular groups now gesture toward religious inspiration in their work Clearly the broad inexorable march toward secularism predicted by so many Westerners has halted which is especially intriguing with regard to humanitarianism Not only was it a highly secularized movement just forty years ago but its principles were based on those we associate with rational modernity cosmopolitan one worldism and material as opposed to spiritual progress How and why did this happen and what does it mean for humanitarianism writ large That is the question that the eminent scholars Michael Barnett and Janice Stein pose in Sacred Aid and for answers they have gathered chapters from leading scholars that focus on the relationship between secularism and religion in contemporary humanitarianism throughout the developing world Collectively the chapters in this volume comprise an original and authoritative account of religion has reshaped the global humanitarian movement in recent times

Hope Christiaan Mostert, 2004 Our age is not one of great hope war and terror continue unabated Despair lies hidden just below the preoccupations of daily life and is starkly visible at many points in today's world Directly or indirectly the contributors to this volume seek to challenge the culture of despair These authors theologians and leaders write about hope its ground its shape in the Bible and its expression in Christian life and worship mission and ministry The book challenges the church as much as the culture Do Christians know the ground of their hope Is the church the bearer of hope Does its worship sustain hope The contributors include biblical scholars historians systematic and pastoral theologians

The History of Religious Imagination in Christian Platonism Christian

Hengstermann,2021-03-25 This collection provides the first in depth introduction to the theory of the religious imagination put forward by renowned philosopher Douglas Hedley from his earliest essays to his principal writings Featuring Hedley s inaugural lecture delivered at Cambridge University in 2018 the book sheds light on his robust concept of religious imagination as the chief power of the soul s knowledge of the Divine and reveals its importance in contemporary metaphysics ethics and politics Chapters trace the development of the religious imagination in Christian Platonism from Late Antiquity to British Romanticism drawing on Origen Henry More and Samuel Taylor Coleridge before providing a survey of alternative contemporary versions of the concept as outlined by Karl Rahner Ren Girard and William P Alston as well as within Indian philosophy By bringing Christian Platonist thought into dialogue with contemporary philosophy and theology the volume systematically reveals the relevance of Hedley s work to current debates in religious epistemology and metaphysics It offers a comprehensive appraisal of the historical contribution of imagination to religious understanding and as such will be of great interest to philosophers theologians and historians alike
