Servant Of The Country:

Country House Servant Pamela A Sambrook, 2002-05-13 One 19th century footman complained about the work involved in drawing more than 40 baths for his household yet Lady Grenville felt no compunction in describing her footman as a lazy flunkey For centuries a large body of domestic servants was an often unappreciated foundation for the smooth running of a household Today the warrens of domestic offices intrigue visitors This book makes sense of these and the social structures behind them It describes the skills equipment cleaning methods and work organization of the housemaid laundrymaid footman valet and hall boy the servants who spent their days polishing fine furniture and washing brilliant chandeliers but also sponging filthy riding habits and washing babies nappies The author also looks at how servants spent their leisure time One footman enjoyed rowing on the lake every morning before work while others had to sit up late at night sewing their own work dresses Contemporary manuals diaries accounts and first hand recollections provide a vivid insight into what life was really like for those in domestic service A wealth of photographs engravings and panels illustrate the domestic workings of country houses many now looked after by the National Trust This is an absorbing book for social historians and visitors to country houses alike

technologies It was an age of fierce controversy in which the government was fearful of beggars and wary of rebellions The commonwealth writers such as Thomas More were sharply critical of the greed of profit hungry landlords who dispossessed the poor This book is about a wool merchant and large scale farmer who epitomises in many ways the spirit of the period John Heritage kept an account book from which we can reconstruct a whole society in the vicinity of Moreton in Marsh Gloucestershire He took part in the removal of a village which stood in the way of agricultural improvement ran a large scale sheep farm and as a woolman spent much time travelling around the countryside meeting with gentry farmers and peasants in order to buy their wool He sold the fleeces he produced and those he gathered to London merchants who exported through Calais to the textile towns of Flanders The wool growers named in the book can be studied in their native villages and their lives can be reconstructed in the round interacting in their communities adapting their farming to new circumstances and arranging the building of their local churches A Country Merchant has some of the characteristics of a biography is part family history and part local history with some landscape history Dyer explores themes in economic and social history without neglecting the religious and cultural background His central concerns are to demonstrate the importance of commerce in the period and to show the contribution of peasants to a changing economy
