Flinders,Christy M. Moroye,2015-08-01 Curriculum and Teaching Dialogue CTD is a publication of the American Association of Teaching and Curriculum AATC a national learned society for the scholarly field of teaching and curriculum The field includes those working on the theory design and evaluation of educational programs at large At the university level faculty members identified with this field are typically affiliated with the departments of curriculum and instruction teacher education educational foundations elementary education secondary education and higher education CTD promotes all analytical and interpretive approaches that are appropriate for the scholarly study of teaching and curriculum In fulfillment of this mission CTD addresses a range of issues across the broad fields of educational research and policy for all grade levels and types of educational programs Sacred Scents in Early Christianity and Islam Mary Thurlkill,2016-07-26 Medieval scholars and cultural historians have recently turned their attention to the question of smells and what olfactory sensations reveal about society in general and holiness in particular Sacred Scents in Early Christianity and Islam contributes to that conversation explaining how early Christians and Muslims linked the sweet smell of sanctity with ideals of the body and sexuality created boundaries and sacred space and imagined their emerging communal identity Most importantly scent itself transgressive and difficult to control signaled transition and transformation between categories of meaning Christian and Islamic authors distinguished their own fragrant ethical and theological ideals against the stench of oppositional heresy and moral depravity Orthodox Christians ridiculed their stinking Arian neighbors and Muslims denounced the reeking corruption of Umayyad and Abbasid decadence Through the mouths of saints and prophets patriarchal authors labeled perfumed women as existential threats to vulnerable men and consigned them to enclosed private space for their protection as well as society's. At the same time theologians praised both men and women who purified and transformed their bodies into aromatic offerings to God. Both Christian and Muslim pilgrims venerated sainted men and women with perfumed offerings at tombstones; indeed Christians and Muslims often worshipped together honoring common heroes such as Abraham, Moses, and Jonah. Sacred Scents begins by surveying aroma's quotidian functions in Roman and pre-Islamic cultural milieus within homes, temples, poetry, kitchens, and medicines. Existing scholarship tends to frame scent as something available only to the wealthy or elite; however, perfumes, spices, and incense wafted through the lives of most early Christians and Muslims. It ends by examining both traditions' views of Paradise identified as the archetypal Garden and source of all perfumes and sweet smells. Both Christian and Islamic texts explain Adam and Eve's profound grief at losing access to these heavenly aromas and celebrate God's mercy in allowing earthly remembrances. Sacred scent thus prompts humanity's grief for what was lost and the yearning for paradisiacal transformation still to come.
