Russian Security After The Cold War Seven Views From Moscow:

Russian Security After the Cold War Alekseĭ Georgievich Arbatov, 1994 Parameters, 1996 Dismantling the Cold War John M. Shields, William C. Potter, 1997 The Nunn Lugar Cooperative Threat Reduction CTR program has since authorized more than 1.5 billion for a wide array of weapons destruction demilitarization nuclear security and nonproliferation activities in the Newly Independent States NIS of the former Soviet Union The Arms Production Dilemma Randall Forsberg, 1994 The studies show how military strategy planned forces and the age of systems in the current inventory affect the domestic demand for new production how the recent drop in domestic demand affects arms industries and the extent to which governments and firms in the arms producing nations are turning to exports to sustain the industries In the shrinking arms market of the post Cold War era countries with advanced arms industries face difficult choices concerning force size arms production arms export and defense industrial capacity This book explores the links among these issues through a detailed study of the combat aircraft industries in the United States Russia Britain France Germany Italy and Sweden the seven countries that develop produce and export all of the world's technologically advanced weapon systems The studies show how military strategy planned forces and the age of systems in the current inventory affect the domestic demand for new production how the recent drop in domestic demand affects arms industries and the extent to which governments and firms in the arms producing nations are turning to exports to sustain the industries Stunning changes in Russia's combat aircraft forces industry and strategy are detailed here for the first time as are expected future Russian combat aircraft exports to China Newly compiled data also show that in the United States and Russia and globally arms production for export will exceed production for domestic use for the first time in history starting in 1995 Arms production is thus increasingly dominated by commercial rather than security interests Ultimately at issue is whether governments will exploit the opportunity offered by the dramatic post Cold War contraction of the world arms market to reduce their armed forces and constrain international arms trade while shrinking the arms industry or keep pushing arms exports that generate new threats and justify larger armed forces more arms production and bigger arms industries

Shaping Europe's Military Order Richard A. Falkenrath, 1995 The legal foundation of the contemporary European security order is the Treaty on Conventional Armed Forces in Europe CFE Negotiated by NATO and the Warsaw Pact states as the Cold War was ending and implemented as the new Europe took shape the CFE Treaty imposes strict limits on the armed forces of all the major European states This book takes a detailed look at the origins and evolution of the CFE negotiations and the impact of the CFE Treaty on European Security It draws extensively on interviews with participants in the CFE negotiations and offers a careful reconstruction of a process that contributed to the transformation of Cold War Europe a critical assessment of the treaty's contribution to security in post Cold War Europe and an evaluation of the lessons of CFE for future conventional arms control initiatives CSIA Studies in International Security No 6 The Siberian Curse

Fiona Hill, Clifford G. Gaddy, 2003 Hill and Gaddy frame the problems of Siberia more clearly and offer policy recommendations which are more concrete and coherent than any previous analyses of Siberia from Russian or foreign sources of which I am aware Robert Cottrell New York Review of Books Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals, 1995 Avoiding Nuclear Anarchy Graham T. Allison, 1996 Nuclear materials have never been more plentiful or more accessible to rogue states and terrorists In this study the authors analyze the consequences of such nuclear leakage for United States national security and argue that it is possibly the nation's The Sanctions Paradox Daniel W. Drezner, 1999-08-26 Despite their increasing importance there is little theoretical understanding of why nation states initiate economic sanctions or what determines their success This book argues that both imposers and targets of economic coercion incorporate expectations of future conflict as well as the short run opportunity costs of coercion into their behaviour Drezner argues that conflict expectations have a paradoxical effect Adversaries will impose sanctions frequently but rarely secure concessions Allies will be reluctant to use coercion but once sanctions are used they can result in significant concessions Ironically the most favourable distribution of payoffs is likely to result when the imposer cares the least about its reputation or the distribution of gains The book's argument is pursued using game theory and statistical analysis and detailed case studies of Russia's relations with newly independent states and US efforts to halt nuclear proliferation on the Korean peninsula Publisher description Soviet Strategic Thought, 1917-91 Andrei A. Kokoshin, 1998-01-15 During the Cold War Westerners were obsessed with the military policies of the Soviet Union Until the demise of the Soviet Union however few details of Moscow's thinking on military matters were available In this book Andrei Kokoshin reveals how Soviet military theorists developed and debated the concepts that provided the basis for the Kremlin's defense policies Drawing on Soviet era archives and unpublished materials he sheds light on this important chapter in the history of Russia and the world The book covers three main themes the relationship between politics and military strategy in the Soviet Union how the Soviet political and military leadership assessed threats to Soviet security the nature of future wars and methods of warfare and the relationship between offense and defense in Soviet military strategy Kokoshin places the strategic concepts behind Moscow's military policies in the context of internal and international struggles for power and assesses the future role of military power in Russia's national security strategy
