Roman Strigillated Sarcophagi Janet Huskinson,2015-11-05 This is the first full study of Roman strigillated sarcophagi which are the largest group of decorated marble sarcophagi to survive in the city of Rome Characterized by panels of carved fluting hence the description strigillated after the curved strigil used by Roman bathers to scrape off oil and limited figure scenes they were produced from the mid second to the early fifth century AD and thus cover a critical period in Rome from empire to early Christianity Roman Strigillated Sarcophagi focuses on their rich potential as an historical source for exploring the social and cultural life of the city in the later empire The first part of the volume examines aspects of their manufacture use and viewing emphasizing distinctive features The second part looks at the figured representations carved on the sarcophagi and at their social significance and creativity concentrating on how their various arrangements allowed viewers to develop their own interpretations The subjects represented by the figures and the flexibility with which they might be read provide invaluable insights into how Romans thought about life and death during these changing times The final part of the volume surveys how later societies responded to Roman strigillated sarcophagi From as early as the fifth century AD their distinctive decoration and allusions to the Roman past made them especially attractive for reuse in particular contemporary contexts notably for elite burials and the decoration of prominent buildings The motif of curved fluting was also adopted and adapted it decorated neo classical memorials to Captain Cook Napoleon s sister in law Christine Boyer and Penelope Boothby and its use continues into this century well over one and a half millennia since it first decorated Roman sarcophagi Bibliographica ,1897 Bibliographica Alfred William Pollard,1897 A series of papers on books their history and art issued in 12 quarterly numbers career Claude Monet would go out with a fellow artist plant his easel beside his friend s and paint the same scene Painting with Monet closely examines pairs of such works showing how attention to this practice raises tantalizing new questions about Monet s art and about impressionism as a movement Is impressionist painting an objective attempt to capture reality as it really is Or is it a subjective expression of the artist s unique way of perceiving things How can artists create a movement without conformity extinguishing individuality Harmon Siegel reveals how Monet explored problems like these in concrete practical ways while painting alongside his teachers Eug ne Boudin and Johan Barthold Jongkind his friends Fr d ric Bazille and Pierre Auguste Renoir and his hero douard Manet At a time of major cultural upheavals these artists asked how we can know reality beyond our personal perception Siegel provides new insights into the aesthetic philosophical and ethical stakes for these painters as they responded to a rapidly changing society Beautifully illustrated Painting with Monet sheds critical light on how Monet and his fellow impressionists painting side by side professed their capacity to know the world and affirmed their belief in what Siegel calls the reality of others
