Aristotle on the Essence of Human Thought Klaus Corcilius,Andrea Falcon,Robert Roreitner,2024-12-04 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read on Oxford Academic and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Aristotle on the Essence of Human Thought offers a novel reading of one of the most difficult stretches of text in the whole Aristotelian corpus De anima III 4.8 showing that this stretch of text contains a unitary and coherent account of the essence of the human capacity for thought Aristotle gives this capacity the name nous Nous is the first principle and ultimate explanans of human thinking The volume argues for four key claims The first claim is rationalism humans come to know the world around us via two fundamentally different cognitive powers nous and perception They are fundamentally different cognitive powers because the nature of their corresponding objects is fundamentally different The second claim is essentialism the human capacity for thought is defined as a capacity for directly grasping essences of everything there is It is this very capacity that Aristotle shows to be the principle of all human thinking According to the third claim separatism human nous is a very special kind of power It is unmixed with the body has no dedicated bodily organ and is separable from the body As a result it cannot be assimilated to any of the other parts of the soul While nous belongs to our essence as human beings it is not part of the natural world Finally the volume argues for embeddedness in the cognitive soul human nous is always embedded in a cognitive soul which among other things means that the distinctive activity of human nous thinking can only take place in the context of a larger set of activities which are common to the body and the soul

United States. Bureau of Education, 1902 The Experience of Science I.F. Goldstein, M. Goldstein, 2013-06-29 Our earlier book How We Know An Exploration of the Scientific Process was written to give some conception of what the scientific approach is like how to recognize it how to distinguish it from other approaches to understanding the world and to give some feeling for the intellectual excitement and aesthetic satisfactions of science These goals represented our concept of the term scientific literacy Though the book was written for the general reader to our surprise and gratification it was also used as a text in about forty colleges and some high schools for courses in science for the non scientist in methodology of science for social and behavioral sciences and in the philosophy of science As a result we were encouraged to write a textbook with essentially the same purpose and basic approach but at a level appropriate to college students We have drawn up problems for those chapters that would benefit from them described laboratory experiments that illustrate important points discussed in the text and made suggestions for additional readings term papers and other projects Throughout the book we have introduced a number of chapters and appendices that provide examples of the uses of quantitative thinking in the sciences
