Memoir typically places selfhood at the center Interestingly the genre's recent surge in popularity coincides with breakthroughs in scholarship focused on selfhood in a new way as an always renewing always emerging entity Suzanne Bost draws on feminist and posthumanist ideas to explore how three contemporary memoirists decenter the self Latinx writers John Rechy Aurora Levins Morales and Gloria E Anzald a work in places where personal history intertwines with communities environments animals plants and spirits This dedication to interconnectedness resonates with ideas in posthumanist theory while calling on indigenous worldviews As Bost argues our view of life itself expands if we look at how such frameworks interact with queer theory disability studies ecological thinking and other fields These webs of relation in turn mediate experience agency and lift itself A transformative application of posthumanist ideas to Latinx feminist and literary studies

Shared Selves shows how memoir can encourage readers to think more broadly and deeply about what counts as human life

If this be Treason Gregory Rabassa, 2005 Gregory Rabassa's influence as a translator is incalculable. His translations of Gabriel Garcia Marquez's One Hundred Years of Solitude and Julio Cortazar's Hopscotch have helped make these some of the most widely read and respected works in world literature. Garcia Marquez was known to say that the English translation of One Hundred Years was better than the Spanish original. In If This Be Treason: Translation and Its Dyscontents, Rabassa offers a cool-headed and humorous defense of translation, laying out his views on the art of the craft. Anecdotal and always illuminating, If This Be Treason traces Rabassa's career from his boyhood on a New Hampshire farm, his school days collecting languages, the two and a half years he spent overseas during WWII, his travels until one day I signed a contract to do my first translation of a long work, Cortazar's Hopscotch for a commercial publisher. Rabassa concludes with his rap sheet, a consideration of the various authors and the over 40 works he has translated. This long-awaited memoir is a joy to read, an instrumental guide to translating and a look at the life of one of its great practitioners.

Intersections of Harm Laura Halperin, 2015-07-13 In this innovative new study, Laura Halperin examines literary representations of harm inflicted on Latinas' minds and bodies and on the places Latinas inhabit, but she also explores how hope can be found amid so much harm. Analyzing contemporary memoirs and novels by Irene Vilar, Loida Maritza Perez, Ana Castillo, Cristina Garcia, and Julia Alvarez, she argues that the individual harm experienced by Latinas needs to be understood in relation to the collective histories of aggression against their communities. Intersections of Harm is more than just a nuanced examination of the intersections among race, ethnicity, class, gender, and sexuality. It also explores the intersections of deviance and defiance, individual and collective, and mind, body, and place. Halperin proposes that ironically, the harmful ascriptions of Latina deviance are tied to the hopeful expressions of Latina defiance. While the Latina protagonists' defiance feeds into the labels of deviance imposed on them, it also fuels the protagonists' ability to resist such harmful treatment. In this analysis, Halperin broadens the parameters of literary studies of female madness as she compels us to shift our understanding of where madness lies. She insists that the madness readily attributed to individual Latinas is entwined with the madness of institutional structures of oppression, and she maintains that psychological harm is bound together with physical and geopolitical harm. In her pan-Latina study, Halperin shows how each writer's work emerges from a unique set of locales and histories, but she also traces a network of connections among them. Bringing together concepts from feminism, postcolonialism, illness studies, and ecocriticism, Intersections of Harm opens up exciting new avenues for Latina/o studies.

Latin American Women and the Literature of Madness Elvira Sánchez-Blake, Laura Kanost, 2015-05-11 At the turn of the millennium, narrative works by Latin American women writers have represented madness within contexts of sociopolitical strife and gender inequality. This book explores contemporary Latin American realities through madness narratives by prominent women authors, including Cristina Peri Rossi (Uruguay), Lya Luft (Brazil), Diamela Eltit (Chile), Cristina Rivera Garza (Mexico), Laura Restrepo (Colombia), and Irene Vilar

Puerto Rico Close reading of these works reveals a pattern of literary techniques a poetics of madness employed by the writers to represent conditions that defy language make sociopolitical crises tangible and register cultural perceptions of mental illness through literature
