Before we start discussing the book "Event, metaphor, memory" by Shahid Amin, it is absolutely necessary to get at least an approximate idea of the events in Chauri Chaura in 1922, which were the historical background of the book.

First, it should be mentioned that Chauri Chaura is a small town nearby Gorakhpur, Uttar Pradesh, in India, where, in February 1922, a British police station was attacked by nationalists. This armed conflict left 22 police officers dead. It should also be taken into account that at the beginning of 1922, there was a nationwide rebellion in India, which is now considered to be the Non-Cooperation Movement that remonstrated against authoritarian laws like, for instance, the Rowlatt Acts, which were adopted in 1919.

It was mostly the fact that Indians were deprived of their civil rights in their own county, which was the cause of the rebellion, and, naturally, they wanted to achieve self-government. This revolt was organized by the Indian National Congress, and its leader was Mahatma Gandhi, who pursued the so-called policy of satyagraha (non-violent resistance to the British rule in India).

On February 4 in 1922, at least 2,000 rebels gathered near the liquor shop at the local market in Chauri Chaura. Armed police forces were sent to the city police station to alleviate tension. The mob went towards the market and began to shout anti-government slogans. The police gave a warning shot. Nevertheless, the effect on the crowd was just the opposite, they were extremely aggressive and did not intend to retreat, and soon they started throwing stones at the armed police officers. Seeing the situation was beyond control, the sub-inspector commended the police officers for opening fire on the crowd.

Three rebels were killed at once, two Hindu and one Muslim, and some of the rebellions were wounded. The crowd became violent and assaulted the police. The armed police officers did not dare shoot at the unarmed people, and they took cover in the police station. The crowd was intent on taking revenge for their killed comrades, and

Metaphor & Memory Cynthia Ozick,1991 Memory, Metaphors, and Meaning Nicolae Babuts,2017-07-05

Literature explores the human condition the mystery of the world life and death as well as our relations with others and our desires and dreams It differs from science in its aims and methods but Babuts shows in other respects that literature has much common ground with science Both aim for an authentic version of truth To this end literature employs metaphors and it does so in a manner similar to that of scientific inquiry The cognitive view does not imply that there is a one to one correlation between the world and text that meaning belongs to the author or that literature is equivalent to perception What it does maintain is that meaning is crucially dependent on mnemonic initiatives and that without memory the world remains meaningless Nicolae Babuts claims that at the interface with the printed page readers process texts in a manner similar to the way they explain the visible world in segments or units of meaning or dynamic patterns Babuts argues that humans achieve recognition by integrating stimulus sequences with corresponding patterns that recognize and interpret each segment of a text Memory produces meaning from these patterns In harmony with its goals memory may adopt specific strategies to deal with different stimuli Dynamic patterns link the unit of processing with the unit of meaning In sum Babuts proposes that meaning is achieved through metaphors and narrative and that both are ways to reach cognitive goals This original study offers perspectives that will interest cognitive psychologists as well as those simply interested in the process through which literature stirs the human imagination Review of Biblical Literature, 2023 Alicia J. Batten,2024-01-30 The

The Metaphoric Process Gemma Corradi Fiumara,2005-08-16 Metaphor is much more than just a linguistic phenomena argues Gemma Corradi Fiumara it is in fact the key process by which we construct and develop our ability to understand the world and the people we share it with Rationality as understood by philosophers has led to a disembodied view of ourselves in which interaction between life and language has been downplayed By looking at the metaphoric process in an interpersonal rather than a formal way its importance in allowing us access to new worlds of experience is revealed The metaphoric potential in us all exposes us to the world and initiates our involvement in it
