

Naturalistic Metaphysics and Common Sense

What people find intuitive is not innate but a developmental achievement of natural selection: common sense beliefs guide us in our everyday life.

But these natural intuitions do not say anything to us about scientific or metaphysical arguments: this because our common sense image of the world is really limited, both in space and in time and it has got a lot of divergences with contemporary science's theories.

Naturalists are not concerning with preserving these beliefs at all.
