

SCIENTIFIC METHOD

The scientific method is a structured and systematic approach to investigating natural phenomena using empirical evidence.

OVERVIEW

The scientific method is a structured and systematic approach to investigating natural phenomena or events through empirical evidence in order to develop reliable and valid conclusions. Empirical evidence can be gathered from experimentation, observation, analysis, and interpretation of data that allows one to create generalizations about probable reasons behind those happenings.

EXAMPLE

Climate Change Research

Climate scientists use the scientific method to study the Earth's changing climate. They collect and analyze data on temperature, CO₂ levels, and ice coverage to understand trends and make predictions about future changes. Other scientists will re-test the results to ensure the models cohere to scientific and academic standards.

Mode-stirred Method Implementation for HIRF Susceptibility Testing and Results Comparison with Anechoic Method Truong X. Nguyen, 2001 This paper describes the implementation of mode stirred method for susceptibility testing according to the current DO 160D standard Test results on an Engine Data Processor using the implemented procedure and the comparisons with the standard anechoic test results are presented The comparison experimentally shows that the susceptibility thresholds found in mode stirred method are consistently higher than anechoic This is consistent with the recent statistical analysis finding by NIST that the current calibration procedure overstates field strength by a fixed amount Once the test results are adjusted for this value the comparisons with the anechoic results are excellent The results also show that estst method has excellent chamber to chamber repeatability Several areas for improvements to the current procedure are also identified and implemented Code of Federal Regulations ,1996 Special edition of the Federal Register containing a codification of documents of general applicability and future effect with ancillaries NUREG/CR.
